Red Hook To Open Season Here as Soon as Weather and Diamond Conditions Permit—Colonials Look Like a Stellar Collection.

The Colonial management this afternoon held a conference with Sid Ross, the last left hander, who pitched with Tannersville last season. Sid is extremely anxious to sign up with the Colonials and may be given a contract.

The team will likely line up as follows:

Volter, of East Kingston, was made a hit with the fans of that season last season with his twirling, and also be given a chance in the box with the Colonials. He can also play the outer garden.

Last season Manager Brown promised Manager Miller, of Red Hook, that the opening game in Kingston this season would be played with Red Hook. The date for the opening game cannot be announced until it is seen how soon the diamond at the fair grounds can be gotten into shape. If the diamond is ready, the opening game will be played on Sunday, April 15.

ROAD PASSABLE NOW TO ALBANY

Bus Drivers Using It Must Take Chances. Albany Auto Club Official Says.

Another road out of Albany was reported as being open Thursday. It is the Albany-Catskill-Kingston highway through Thursday from Kingston reported to Leslie Belknap, assistant secretary of the Albany Automobile club, that the highway is in fair condition and the Knickerbocker Express.

The best route is by way of Rensselaer, Mr. Belknap said. He said that those who use the Albany-Kingston road take chances. Heavy trucks running over this road have run down the ribs so that many cars stop on the ridge while their wheels go spinning around.

The Schenectady-Troy road is open, Mr. Belknap said, but is in poor condition and badly rutted. The Albany-Schenectady road is reported to be in good condition.

FORD BUYS COAL LAND IN KENTUCKY

Peabody Syndicate Holdings Acquired For Over $2,000,000—Half Billion Feet of Timber Included.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Detroit, March 23.—William H. Smith, natural resource engineer of the Ford Motor Company, confirmed reports today that Henry Ford had purchased extensive coal lands in eastern Kentucky from the F. S. Peabody syndicate, Chicago, for a price between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000.

Smith said that the tract composed 120,000 acres lying in four counties of eastern Kentucky, but principally in Clay and Leslie counties.

It is estimated that there are 500,000,000 feet of timber standing on the property and 500,000,000 tons of coal is now underground.

Smith refused to give any further information concerning the development of the land but said that Ford intended to use the coal primarily to supply his large industrial plants.

The lands are penetrated by a branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, but it could not be learned whether Ford will construct independent transportation lines as a part of the development.

STEEL CORPORATION SHIPS MAY USE PANAMA ROUTE.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, March 23.—The United States Steel Corporation may continue to operate its own steamships through the Panama Canal, the interstate commerce commission decided today.

The decision was rendered at the request of the corporation in the case of the Ishman Steamship Line as a result of charges of the Luckenbach Steamship Company that the operations of Ishman's ships were the result of unfair advantages over other companies.

At the same time a kinder symphony is to be given, in which a number of young people are taking part. Both symphony and play are being drilled by W. W. Eidenburg, organist of the church.

SAUNDERS COMES DOWN ON PRICE

Now Says Shorts Can Have Piggly Wiggly He Bought For Less Than $70 a Share For $100.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, March 23.—Shorts in the stock of Piggly Wiggly, a chain grocery stores corporation, can settle at $100 a share, Clarence Saunders, president of Piggly Wiggly, who engineered a corner, announced today through his New York attorney.

The statement said shares could be had by applying to the National Bank of Commerce, which was acting as agent for the Memphis man who took the Wall street shorts into camp.

The statement issued by Saunders read:

"I propose for a full settlement today of all accounts of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., Class A stock and that I will furnish this stock upon application for same to the National Bank of Commerce, in New York, on payment of $100 a share."

The settlement price offered by Saunders is $18 a share above the last sale made on the stock exchange before that organization struck the shorts from the trading list.

All of Saunders's holdings, which represent 99 per cent of the 200,000 outstanding shares, were acquired at less than $70 a share, it is understood, while the greater part of his holdings were bought on short sale offerings of $55 and less.

The concession made by Saunders represents a remarkable change in his stand since yesterday when he declared all "short" not settling at $150 a share would have to pay $250 a share today.

State-tellers, who yesterday were computing Saunders's paper profits at upwards of $2,000,000 as a result of his corner, today were revising their estimates and setting a figure at $500,000 or less.

ROADS CLEARING; BUSSES RESUME

Woodstock Bus Will Make One Trip Daily Beginning Monday—Ellenville and Phoenicia Busses Running.

After being laid up for nearly three months on account of the severe snow storms and impassable condition of the roads the Woodstock bus will commence making one trip a day from Woodstock to Kingston next Monday. Mr. Longyear will make but one trip a day until the road conditions are improved. The bus will leave Woodstock at 9 a. m. and will leave Kingston for the return trip at 5.30 p. m.

The Phoenicia-Kingston bus which got through a few days ago after a lay up of about three months is now making one trip each day. The bus leaves the uptown terminal at 1.30 o'clock.

Road conditions are improving rapidly and in many places the roads are entirely free from ice and snow while in other sheltered spots and where the drizzle were several feet in height there are still deep ruts which makes going slow but bus owners claim there is no longer any danger to operate. A few more warm days will clear up the roads entirely where there have been previously scraped and cleaned of snow.

The Ellenville auto passenger bus came through to this city on Thursday, the first trip in some time.

INVESTIGATING MAIL ROBBERY AT HARMON

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, March 23.—Belief that the robber who last night stole a pouch of mail consigned to Tarrytown, N. Y., from the Harmon station of the New York Central Railroad, was not bent on petty robbery but was interested in securing a certain letter contained in the consignment, was hinted today by the postoffice inspectors investigating the robbery. The methods pursued by the thief were not those of a mail robber. It was also pointed out as significant that out of a half dozen pouches, the thief had snatched out the Tarrytown sack.

No estimate of what had been stolen could be learned.

DEER NEARLY INVADE MT. TREMPER PASTURES

From various parts of the county come tales of large herds of deer which have been driven down from the highlands to the valleys in search of food. On account of the deep snow which remains on the mountains deer make their way to the lower valleys where food may be found. At Mt. Tremper on Wednesday a herd of twenty-two deer was seen. The deer were evidently extremely hungry, coming within a few hundred feet of the houses in search of food.

There were guests present from White Plains, New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Kingston. All of which wished Mr. Parker very much success in his new venture.

$110,000,000 IN 3 BOND ISSUES

Legislature Has Passed One Calling For $45,000,000 Bonus Money And Will Likely Authorize $50,000,000 For Hospitals—Smith Against $15,000,000 for Parks.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, March 23.—A total of $110,000,000 of the state's money would be spent in three bond issues which have come up for consideration of the present Legislature.

Of the three, only one has yet been passed that approving of $15,000,000 to pay New York state veterans of the World War a bonus. Another would bond the state for $50,000,000 for improvement and construction of many new state hospitals. It was recommended by Governor Smith following the recent disaster at Waikiki Island in which more than a score lost their lives.

Then other calls for a bond issue of $45,000,000 for improvement of state parks and the purchase of some additional land for park purposes.

The bond issue for veterans is included in a proposition to amend the constitution of the state to overcome an objection raised by the Court of Appeals two years ago. The court held that the state could not bond itself to pay a bonus to veterans.

Former soldiers who are members of the legislature are not members of the fact that they fear the people may not approve the $15,000,000 bond issue this fall when it is submitted to them for their approval.

It seems certain now that the $50,000,000 proposed bond issue will be approved by the legislature, that is they will approve of having the voters pass on it. There seem to be some doubts as to whether the legislature will approve the measure providing for a $15,000,000 bond issue to park improvement purposes.

As only one bond issue can be submitted to the voters at one election, the veterans' proposition was so worded that the $45,000,000 was incidental to the proposed amendment to the constitution. If this had not been done, then Governor Smith would have been called upon to decide whether the voters should pass on the veterans' proposition or the one to improve the hospitals. As it stands now both can be submitted this fall, at the lawmakers' approval of the $20,000,000 issue.

But this will leave the $45,000,000 park issue "out in the cold," because it could not be submitted to the voters along with the $20,000,000. It is generally believed at the capital that the governor does not approve of the park bond issue at this time.

SMITH ANNOUNCES WILLINGNESS TO MEET REPUBLICANS IN CONFERENCE

But Governor's Friends Believe His Measures Will be Killed in the End—He Arranges Speaking Dates in Western Section.

FORD PEERS 20 YEARS AHEAD

$10 Per Day Skilled Labor Minimum. An Freighters, Mines, Railways and Power Owned by Manufacturers Some of the Things He Foresees.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, March 23.—I went through my legislation, not conferences," said Governor Smith today in commenting on the suggestion by Speaker Machold of the assembly that he confer with a committee of Republican assemblymen. The governor said, however, he would meet a committee of the Republican members of the lower house at any time. Friends of the governor expressed the opinion that little would be accomplished at the conference. They said they believed the Republicans in the lower house would kill a majority of the governor's measures, despite any conference which might be held.

Despite the plans for a conference, the governor is arranging several speaking dates throughout the central and western part of the state at which he will discuss the action of the Republican assembly in killing his proposed constitutional amendments to provide for an executive budget and a four year term for governor.

Ford believes that American industry by 1941 will be using an amount of power that will be equal to that of the United States today. Ford believes that American industry will own their own water power, railways, coal mines and sources of raw materials.

Labor, Ford asserts, is becoming more and more skilled as new machines are invented to do the work now accomplished by hand. At the time the workmen's hand will be used to operate the machines, labor will be doing the work of the machine.

Twenty years ago what would people have said if a railway company had announced it was going to build a road highway adjacent to the tracks? asked Ford. But I do not need to answer that question. The people would have thought the railroad officials crazy, crazy to open competition in such a manner. Today, the official in the transportation company would have thought a similar thing. Today, to me it is a good business. Industry 20 years from now will be using the highway for freight transportation. It will be using the air, also.

"There is so much water power lying idle that twenty years hence big manufacturers will be using it. They will have their own water power, their own railways, their own factories, they will own everything that enters into the manufacture of their product, own it, and control it."

"Owing the law products is the fundamental basis of it all. Owing these raw products and utilizing them to the best advantage, and wasting nothing. Wasting is expensive. Labor that is the laboring man, will have an equal and a better time. Manufacturers today are installing labor saving devices. Installing these labor saving devices is a process. It is a difficult thing, not to do a man who hasn't a hard, laboring duties has ceased to be a man of much value. I wanted the old-fashioned,

THIS BALL GAME LASTED SIX DAYS

Might Have Gone Longer If Players Had Not Fallen Asleep From Exhaustion—Teles Won From Glaciers Setting New World's Record—Where Daylight Is Saved

"Well, captain, when are you going to issue a call for spring practice?" queried Blink Biven of Captain Roodboy of the famous Glaciers as some of the players met at Roodboy's house to talk over the coming season.

"Just as soon as weather permits," replied Roodboy, with a smile. He added: "I see that Kingston again has 'daylight saving' time this summer."

"Talking about saving daylight," interrupted Raiser Turk, "reminds me of a letter I got from my cousin telling of the world's record game that was staged in the Arctic League when the Glaciers, commanded by him, defeated the Icicles by a score of 5 to 4 in a game that lasted six and a half days."

"Huh," grunted Zink Biven. "Yes, huh," retorted Raiser, "for you don't want to forget that in the Arctic region they have six months of daylight and six of night."

"Never mind, Zink, go on with your story," suggested Roodboy.

"Well," complied Raiser somewhat mollified, "this here game he wrote about was one of the deciding ones of the season. Owing to the fact that everything in the vicinity is snow white it was necessary to paint the baseball used a deep black so it could be seen more easily."

"The Icicles and Glaciers had gone into the ninth frame with the score tied at 1-1. At the opening of the tenth the Icicles determined to end the agony. My cousin popped out the first ball and reached first. The other Icicles shoved him around to third with some 'safe' hits and then with the bases full up stepped the slugger of the team. He caught an out curve on the end of his bat and it looked like a homer, but unfortunately for the Icicles a huge polar bear happened to stick his head up from behind a snow bank."

"The ball struck the bear on top of the head with such force that it rebounded into the catcher's hands and, by quick work, completed a triple play. From then on the game was nip and tuck. Neither side could score a run."

"As they were playing in the daylight period of the Arctic, the game could not be called on account of darkness, and as fast as the players grew hungry their meals were brought to them and they ate whenever they had a chance."

"Everybody forgot just how many innings were played, even the umpire, and although the players were rapidly getting tired the game was not called as neither side would consent to an adjournment. The play continued between innings while the umpire sat at the bat, but as the sun did not have a chance to nap."

"The game had been under way continuously for six and a half days when the Glaciers could no longer stand the strain and one of the players committed the unpardonable sin of falling asleep at his berth and failed to field the ball batted at him, and the Icicles won by a score of 5 to 4."

"I guess he is right, I won't dispute it," said Captain Roodboy.

FOR STOUT WOMEN

Square Neck and Balkan Blouse
Becoming to Portly.

Garment is Suitable, Besides Being Fashionable for the Women of King Outfit.

Stout women are becoming more sensible to the plans and contrivances of designers. Judging by the styles being introduced for stout women, they have apparently forgotten or considered to overlook their prejudices.

The Peter Pan type of collar, for instance, is glimpsed for the large woman. In regular sizes, this round, youthful collar is being used a good deal for suits that have jackets in box or flare style.

The bateau neck has always been another bugbear for stout women, but when it is cut a little low in front, and when the bodice is trimmed or padded in lengthwise lines, this neck is not unbecoming.

Glad tidings for stout women is the news that the square neck is extremely well thought of in Paris. While this is not perhaps as becoming as the V-outline, it is susceptible of long and narrow treatment, and when not too shallow is a becoming neck for the woman of full figure.

Reverting to suits, another feature in the extra size models is the adoption of the Balkan blouse finish, that is, the wide band at the lower edge of the jacket. As this glides the hip it might be thought inappropriate for the large woman. It is becoming and suitable, to say nothing of fashionable, for the "stylish stout" figure. However, it is not so good for the woman of large hip and smaller bust. The jacket with ample drape and the narrow belt remains her best selection. In the Balkan style a slight blouse gives a straight line above the skirt, and is very becoming.

In dresses, draperies continue to sunderize the more generously proportioned, the tendency being toward drapery at each side. Front drapery is not considered becoming to the stout woman, but a way may yet be found to adapt it gracefully.

MISSSES' CHIC SUIT OF TWEED

This new version of a misses' tweed suit reveals its fitness for town or country wear. Kasha cloth is applied in contrasting notes.

PARIS SHOWS CIRCULAR LINE

Prominent Detail of the Silhouette in the New Models—Loose Coats Are Favorites.

The circular line is a detail of the silhouette shown by prominent Paris artists in designing. It appears in skirts, but does not detract from the straight line above the knees or hips;
in hip length jackets, applied below the waist; and in an elbow or hip length cape for wear with the one-piece dress. This cape takes the place of the coat in the three-piece costume suit.

Three-quarter, boxed or semi-fitted, all the three-quarter length circular line are favorites with designers.
Sleeves and cape wrap hold to their popularity. Sleeves of suits are long and set in at normal or the dropped shoulder line; tailored dresses feature long sleeves, coat or Momen type, set in at normal. When the short sleeve appears it is untrimmed, reaching from four to six inches above the elbow. The waistline is varied, being either normal, at the hipline or chemise type; necklines vary, with the boat shape still the favorite. Braiding and embroidery are the popular trimmings, but fancy clasps, ribbons and buttons are in demand. These style details, in spite of the fact that they are only tendencies as yet, are especially usable for the frock that is the stepping stone from winter modes to spring fashions.

2,283 Steps in a Mile.
When a man walks a mile he takes an average of 2,283 steps, but when he rides a bicycle with an average

MALINGERING.

You never can tell what some modern young girl with too much time to kill will be up to next. Up in Nova Scotia some time since a girl who became widely known as "Mary Ellen" for weeks pulled the strings that functioned a haunted house, mystifying not only the whole neighborhood but grave professors who came to investigate. Equal fame that will be equally temporary has now been won by Evelyn Lyons of Escanaba, Mich., who had a perfectly good time during many days by running her temperature up to 114 and "fooling" the amazed physicians of that locality. Not until a Chicago doctor, with special knowledge of the kind of fake called malingering, came to look Evelyn over was the trickery exposed.

Editors have expressed critical surprise that the local doctors permitted themselves to be deceived. "They are chargeable," says one, "with the common knowledge of their profession as to the degree of fever that means death, and when it was far exceeded by a person not ill at all they had what should have been sufficient proof that their patient was not as feverish as their thermometers recorded." But they were dealing with a young miss as shrewd as she was perverse, who cunningly distracted their attention while she contrived to bring the thermometer into touch with the hot-water bag, and doubtless they became nervously excited in the presence of the seeming prodigy. Even a physician may be modestly aware that his experience is limited, that the physical system is still largely a mystery, and that in this world of wonders there is more of possibility of startling variations from the normal than is generally supposed.

PANAMA AND SUEZ TONNAGE.

The proposition of another isthmian canal, recently proposed and then dropped at Washington, has brought forth figures showing that the Panama canal is still far behind the Suez in volume of business, although the former has steadily increased its tonnage since its opening. The Suez canal did its record business in 1913, when 20,033,892 tons passed through. Its tonnage for 1921 was 18,118,999 tons. The Panama canal's traffic has risen from 2,396,162 tons in 1916 to 11,415,876 tons in 1921. The prediction that it would soon exceed the business of the Suez has not been verified. Whether it will remain to be seen.

It is stated the 46 per cent of the Panama's traffic is in American ships, not quite so much in British ships, and the small remainder scattering. Prospective developments in Alaska are expected to add to the Panama's business, and the mining of Chile's vast copper deposits will contribute further; but the most certain increase counted on is said to be in freight to and from our Atlantic and Pacific States. Obviously no need of a second canal is at present indicated.

Some of the new tales of "liquor robbers" almost equal, in the amount of money involved, the old tales of uncharted pirate treasure and gold mine strikes. For example, there is that yarn from Baltimore about digging an underground tunnel 150 feet long to a distillery plant, rigging up a suction pump and siphoning out more than a hundred barrels of whiskey, valued at $250,000. It seems that the tunnel was carried through the wall of the plant in a far corner behind a pile of barrels, thus preventing discovery. The dispatch indicated that the unique theft was successful and that a portion of the liquor, after the stolen liquid riches had been removed to a safe hiding place, was at once put on the bootlegger market.

There has been some talk of calling a special session of the Senate in order to amend the rules so that business of the next Congress may not be held up by the minority as it was during the controversy over the shipping bill. The Senate rules can be amended by majority vote, so the Republicans are in a position to make such changes as they please.

It is possible that President Harding may call the Senate together in the early fall to pass upon his recommendation for the adherence of the United States to the world court protocol. At that time a motion to amend the rules will be in order, and several senators have already signified their intention of urging the reform.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. I have noticed nursery advertisements of seedling apple trees. Are these raised from seed without grafting; and if so, what kind of apples will give good fruit without grafting?

We cannot answer for the advertisement, but fancy it is merely of young trees whose stock is grown from seed, but whose top has been grafted with a scion of some standard variety. Nurseries "make" trees this way by growing hardy young seedlings until about 1-3 inch diameter of trunk, graft seedlings that have been dug and laid away in autumn, set them out in spring, and allow them to grow two to four years, when they are ready to sell. Seedlings almost never "breed true" or grow fruit like their parent tree. Hence the necessity of securing certain characters for the fruit, by grafting from a standard tree.

2. Do fishes have tongues?

They have a very rudimentary tongue, composed of a fold or wrinkle in the mucous membrane that lines the floor of the mouth.

3. Do birds swallow hairy caterpillars and fuzz?

Most birds won't touch fuzzy caterpillars, but the cuckoo, both black and yellow billed, eat them, and their stomachs if dissected, show hairs stuck into the walls, sometimes almost like a felt lining. The Baltimore Oriole attacks hairy caterpillars, but its method is said to be a sucking process, whereby the soft inner body part is consumed and the "hairs" dropped.

PLATTEKILL.

Plattekill, March 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Willett Deyo celebrated their 25th anniversary of their marriage at their home in Plattekill Friday evening, March 16. The following guests were present: The Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Seaman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Minard, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Roo, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Griffin, Mrs. Cornelia Atkins and Mrs. Allen DeWitt of Marlborough, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dransfield, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. John D. White, W. DeWitt Eggleston, Mrs. Walter Eggleston, Warren H. Eggleston of Newburgh, Mr. and Mrs. George Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. William Harris, Doris Barnes, Lolita Harris, Gladys Seaman, Margaret Ferguson, Leroy Fowler. The Rev. H. A. Seaman called the party to order and gave a few appropriate remarks. S. Barnes recited and sang. J. Arthur Minard next had the floor, after which the following reading was given from the pen of Mrs. H. A. Seaman: Twenty-five years ago tonight, in the spring of 1898, satisfied he'd met his fate, Willett Deyo married lovely Emma Atkins. At the parsonage at Marlborough, Willett and Emma proclaimed their wedding vows. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. George F. Barber. He was a well known domestic. Their married life has been much the same as other married lives, with the sunshine and the shadow and the pleasure, joy and strife. Or the many virtues of the bride we can hardly make a choice, so I think we'll vote in favor of her sweet and gentle voice. The groom has labored faithfully and certainly has tried to make his home a happy one and cozy things provide. We cannot speak of all Willett's works, or the trials which befall. But the pinnacle of his success, when all is done and said, is when he bought this farm and moved in Plattekill. And so it is we meet tonight, with friends both young and old, to celebrate their 25th anniversary. But we regret that their isn't any little Deyos here. But our wish is that the married life of bride and groom, as they journey on their way, will ripen and develop and grow brighter day by day. May you both continue in and store up treasures real, where moth or rust do not corrupt nor thieves break in and steal. Then you will come to dwell among the ones already blessed, where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest. Next came a recitation by Mrs. Jacy R. Seaman entitled "The Silver Wedding." After which a beautiful repast was served which was enjoyed by all.

HOW

YELLOWED PIANO KEYS MAY BE MADE SIGHTLY.

There is nothing more unsightly than to have the white ivory keys on a piano turn yellow in spots, which is due to perspiration of the fingers in the summer time and to a slight oiliness of them in winter. An experimenter claims that he has found that the original whiteness can be restored by using a weak solution of nitric acid and water, says the New York World. Put one ounce of nitric acid and 12 ounces of soft or distilled water in a bottle having a rubber cork. If the latter is not handy, an ordinary cork dipped into melted paraffin wax will do.

Be sure to pour the acid very slowly into the water and stir it with a stick. Do not reverse this proceeding or the acid will fly up into your eyes. In using this solution, pour a little of it into a glass dish; then dip a brush into the liquid, wiping off the surplus on the edge of the dish.

If no brush is handy, tie a piece of cheesecloth on a stick and use that; in fact, cloth on a stick makes a very good brush for this work. Apply the solution sparingly to the stained keys, taking care that no acid get on the black keys or woodwork. Then rub the surface lightly with a piece of cheesecloth to remove the stain. Next wash off all acid with a piece of flannel dipped in clear water and wipe with a dry cloth.

CLING TO PRIMITIVE CUSTOM

How the Modern Arab Takes His Coffee, as Told by American Consular Official.

Coffee houses in Aden are crowded day and night, says Consul Raymond Davis in response to an inquiry from the Department of Commerce on the market for percolators, but they have shown no improvement in the methods of preparing cups that cheer but do not inebriate.

The Arabian method of coffee making, as described by the consul, requires the use of small clay mugs, made locally, which cost 6 to 12 annas each. In one corner of the shop a charcoal fire is kept burning and on it are placed the mugs containing water, powdered coffee and sometimes a little ginger and sugar to be brought to a boil. As soon as it comes to a boil the coffee is consumed, with or without sugar, and always without milk. The coffee-house price is one-half anna a mug. Patrons seem to be satisfied with this primitive method, and cafe proprietors say it would cause too much trouble and take too much time to familiarize the servants with the modern coffee machine.

How Temperature Affects Fish.

Fish are very quick to feel a change of temperature in their native element, and sudden cooling or heating of the water is very injurious to them.

A hot summer has been known to drive herring to find cooler waters at a distance. Some years ago a fearful storm raged along the eastern coast of North America. After it had subsided the sea was strewn with millions of fish, a fish like a cod, but attaining a weight of 50 pounds or more. A vessel was sent to discover the cause of the strange phenomenon. It plowed straight ahead for 150 miles and estimated that an area of 5,000 square miles was covered with dead fish. It was discovered that the storm had brought icebergs in its train, and the consequent great cold had proved too much for the fish, accustomed as they were to warmer waters. The cod has an objection to sudden changes of climate, and if put in colder water than that to which he is accustomed will be numbed. Experiments have been tried to acclimatize English salmon in Tasmania, but the difference in temperature has caused these experiments to fail.

How Fuel Supply May Be Increased.

Researches have been made in France with respect to the use of grape pomace as fuel. Moreover, attention has been invited to various kinds of material that might be used in this way to a good advantage, and the calorific power of which possesses considerable value. It has been found that grape pomace, when well dried, is an excellent fuel and has a good heating quality. In the researches mentioned, it was demonstrated that the substance dried at 115 degrees centigrade shows 4,400 calories.

It is also shown that as this substance has much resemblance to dried peat, it can be used in suitable producer gases, and it has an advantage over peat in that it can be dried rapidly. Combustion allows of recovering most of the phosphorus compounds and potash contained in the ash, and only the nitrogen is lost. A ton of well dried pomace has the same heat value as 0.4 ton of coal. By this estimate the annual wine production in France of 1,250,000,000 gallons represents at least 175,000 tons of coal, so that the interest of this application is considerable. Pomace of other fruits could no doubt be employed.

WHISKEY TOO COSTLY

At Drug Stores, Complains C. Meach Woolsey.

The Hon. C. Meach Woolsey of Milton has written a letter to the New York Herald protesting against the exorbitant price of whiskey at drug stores, and his letter appears in today's Herald, as follows:

I see by the papers that the City of New York and the State of New York have recently purchased or are about to purchase several hundred gallons of whiskeys and wines for the hospitals. And they have paid for such whiskeys and wines have been offered to them for $3 a gallon. Eminent physicians have deemed it necessary in certain cases of whiskey and wines and the law has provided that physicians could, where they deemed it necessary, in their treatment of the sick, have whiskeys and wines.

At the state and city institutions where the poor are treated the liquor costs $3 a gallon, but outside such institutions, where the poor and needy must have such remedies and where the doctors issue certificates to be filled by druggists, the price reaches about $24 a gallon. If the poor man has not the price he needs must go without the remedy.

Now it is claimed that the druggist pays more than $3 a gallon; that he is paying from $5 to $8 a gallon for his supplies, but even then he is making 300 or 400 per cent profit, and this appears to be the universal price. You can call upon a hundred druggists to fill a prescription of this kind and the price is almost invariably $3 a pint. Now isn't there some remedy for all this? Is there a law against profiteering, and if so is 300 per cent profit profiteering?

Can't the Legislature of the State of New York, can't the Congress of the United States, provide the remedy? Can't your paper, the greatest in the city and I might say the greatest in the world, provide a remedy?

CUNO REJECTS NEUTRAL STRIP

German Chancellor Presents His Arguments in General Against French Course.

(Copyright 1923 By International News Service.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, March 23.—Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno of Germany, rejects the proposal for an internationalized strip of territory in the Rhineland between France and Germany. Furthermore, he declared he would never sign any agreement with France for a reparations settlement unless he knew that Germany could carry it out to the letter.

These statements were contained in an exclusive interview given to International News Service by the chief of the German government before he left for Munich to consult with Bavarian officials.

When the subject of "internationalization in the Rhineland" was mentioned, Chancellor Cuno said with great emphasis:

"That is absolutely out of the question. It is not for us now nor ever will be for us a subject of discussions. Reparations—the amount and nature of paying it—are subjects for discussion but when France speaks of 'internationalization,' she touches upon a territorial question and encroaches upon the sacred national entity of the German state. We will never listen to any such proposals."

Chancellor Cuno reiterated that he would never put his signature upon anything that could not be kept and fulfilled.

"Has not M. Poincare, has not France, has not the entire world learned by this time the shallow value of promises made under duress, ultimatums and threats of every kind and under violent punitive measures?"

"The world of the last four years has been filled with such extorted promises. Over all the threats and ultimatums, has always hovered the menace of Ruhr invasion."

"What was the London ultimatum other than a series of promises squeezed from us through the threat of Ruhr occupation? I happened to be in America at that time. Practically all of my friends there with whom I had long frank talks, approved our acceptance of the London ultimatum, because, they argued, subsequent events would prove to the whole world the impossibility of fulfilling the obligations. This, too, was undoubtedly the guiding thought of those who signed 'on the dotted line' on Germany's behalf."

"But what has been the invariable result of this policy of ultimatums? Whenever the time came that our utter incapacity for fulfillment was proved, France would raise the hue and cry which echoed throughout the world: 'Germany will not fulfill.' It was not said that we could not pay out that we would not. In the meantime the world—even those who tried to look at the matter fairly and with open eyes—had forgotten that impossible promises had literally been forced upon us."

"That is how Germany gradually gained the evil reputation of being a 'Welcher'—a nation that does not keep its promises."

Chancellor Cuno's teeth clicked audibly as he angrily snapped out the next words:

"We have done with that sort of policy. I shall not sign a scrap of paper—a contract in which one party extorts unfulfillable pledges from the other. That is certainly not a scrap of paper."

The correspondent recalled various intimations in the Paris and London press that Germany was expected to make a new offer in order to open the way for negotiations."

"Have we not made enough offers in the past?" demanded Chancellor Cuno. "Did we not, on the very eve of French occupation of the Ruhr, make the frankest and fairest offer imaginable—an offer wholeheartedly endorsed by the Ruhr industries? What did it avail us? It was contemptuously ignored. It was not even heard in Paris. Moreover, even if we wanted to make a new offer what could we offer? We do not know what will become of the Ruhr. It is the Ruhr that has borne the burden of reparations. It was the Ruhr industrialists who backed our offer which Paris ignored."

Munich, March 23.—Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno of Germany, assured the members of the Bavarian government today that Germany will stick to the policy of passive resistance against the French in the Ruhr. He emphasized the fact that Berlin holds to the policy of passive resistance as the most effective protest against French invasion.

Spontaneity.

The bad poems are spun out of the writers' heads. But let a man see three white ducks waddle across the village green in the sunshine, and on selfishly delight in the sight, and express his delight in the first words that come, and it will not be a bad poem, very likely a triumphantly good one. The great mark of bad poetry is effort. The bad poets strive and cry, they toil and spin, they take thought. Good poetry comes without observation.—R. L. Gates.

Several Forms of Sugar.
Many varieties of sugars exist, cane sugar, maple and beet. Failing these we have corn sugar under the name of glucose or dextrose, and the same in vegetables, fruits and honey. In a brownish powder we find it on prunes or raisins. Lactose or milk sugar is another principal sugar, although it will never fill an important place in commerce. It exists in cow's milk, and plays an important part in nutrition.

MANACLES CUT FLESH

Asserts Captain Told Him He Intended Inflicting Beatings on "Lazy Worker"—Injuries Result in Man's Death.

New York.—A tale of the sea rivaling "Treasure Island" in dramatic detail was told in Federal court when Eulit Stoar, former assistant steward on the President Van Buren, described how he had seen George H. Miles, captain of the ship, kick H. G. Baxter, a pantryman, causing injuries which, it is charged, resulted in his death.

Miles is being tried for murder on the high seas, alleged to have been committed last June, before Judge Francis A. Winslow and a jury.

Chained to Bulkhead.

"I was going down the iron ladder into hold 10 to see Baxter, who was handcuffed and chained to a bulkhead, when I saw that Captain Miles was there ahead of me," Stoar said. "He made some remark to Baxter—I couldn't hear what it was—and then I saw him kick Baxter as he lay there helpless. He kicked him twice.

"I didn't dare say anything. I was afraid if I did the captain would take me for mutiny. When I saw what he did to Baxter I was so sickened I could hardly crawl back up the ladder."

Under questioning by Carleton Goldthwaite, assistant United States attorney, Stoar said Baxter had fainted at his work a few hours after he came aboard the ship. Later he said the first officer and the pantryman "had some words" over Baxter shirking his work.

Manacles Cut Flesh.

Stoar testified that the falling out with the mate resulted in Baxter being handcuffed and chained in the hold. He said he visited Baxter twice and that the manacles on his wrist were so tight that they had cut through the flesh. The third time he went to see his shipmate, he said, the assault occurred.

Maurice Condit, who was a passenger on the ship, testified that Captain Miles had told him that he had a man on board who wouldn't work and that he intended to give him a beating. Later he said Miles told him the man was dead.

HEART BEATS AFTER DEATH

Throbs for Forty Minutes When Short Illness Is Fatal to California Girl.

Bolondo, Cal.—Upon contention of her physicians, who declare the girl's heart beat for 40 minutes after she was pronounced dead, an autopsy will be performed on the body of Miss Izzette McCameron, fifteen years old. Physicians refused to sign a death certificate until an examination is made.

The girl became ill at school and stopped breathing in a few hours. Her heart continued to beat for fully 40 minutes, attending physicians declare.

Six-Foot Snake Defies Traffic "Cop."

New York.—A six-foot snake was killed when it refused to stop for a traffic policeman. Traffic was suspended when the reptile appeared. Women screamed. Men rushed from sidewalks. Motorists leaped from cars. The policeman took his club and beat it to death. The snake was white with green stripes.

BREAK ROAD-BUILDING MARKS

During 1922 Fiscal Year 10,000 Miles of Federal-Aid Roads Were Constructed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

All records for road construction in the United States were broken during the fiscal year 1922, according to the annual report of the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture. During that period 10,000 miles of federal-aid roads and more than an equal mileage of highways without federal assistance were constructed.

From the viewpoint of federal-aid progress the year divides itself into two periods, one before and the other after the passage of the federal highway act. The first period was a season of great construction activity, during which the greater part of the work of completing the 10,000 miles was done. It was also one of almost complete stagnation with respect to the initiation of projects.

When the year opened there was an unobligated balance of $18,793,544 of the federal-aid appropriations, and the projects initiated since the beginning of the work aggregated 35,402 miles. By the end of October, 1921, the unobligated balance had been reduced to $11,714,328, the lowest it had been since 1918. Only two states at that time had a balance of more than $1,000,000 to draw upon for new projects, and a number were so reduced that their balance was not sufficient to pay for another mile of road.

Just before the passage of the federal highway act the mileage submitted by the states had not grown during the fiscal year, but had actually diminished as a result of the withdrawal and substitution of projects. The total mileage proposed was only 35,379 miles, as compared with the 35,102 miles of four months before. Immediately upon the approval of the act the initiation of projects took on new life and in the months of March and June reached the unprecedented total of 1,279 miles a month. At the close of the year the submitted mileage is 39,940 miles, 4,568 miles greater than at the close of the preceding fiscal year.

At the close of the preceding year projects completed aggregated 7,469 miles, and there were 17,978 miles under construction, which were estimated as 50 per cent complete. In one year the completed mileage has grown to 17,716 miles, an increase of more than 10,000 miles, and there still remain under construction 11,513 miles, which are estimated as 50 per cent complete. The federal aid earned by the states on completed and uncompleted projects amounts to $194,590,125, of which $166,311,552 have actually been paid.

The total length of projects in all stages, including those which have been completed and those which are in the stages preliminary to construction, is 39,940 miles.

The roads brought to completion during the year average over 200 miles for each state. The greatest increase in completed mileage is in Texas, which has added during the year 933 miles to its completed highway. Arkansas, Georgia, Iowa, Minnesota and North Carolina, each with an increase of more than 500 miles, and Montana and Wisconsin, with more than 400 miles, made notable advances toward the goal of a completed highway system.

A number of smaller states, such as Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, made very substantial increases in proportion to their size.

The largest payment of federal aid during the year also went to Texas, which received from the government $5,015,046 and earned nearly $2,500,000 more. Other large payments were made to Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Pennsylvania, each of which received from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 or more during the year.

Much License Fee Money.

The Pennsylvania state highway department has received $400,000 thus far in revenue for motor vehicle license applications for 1923. More than 40,000 licenses have been applied for.

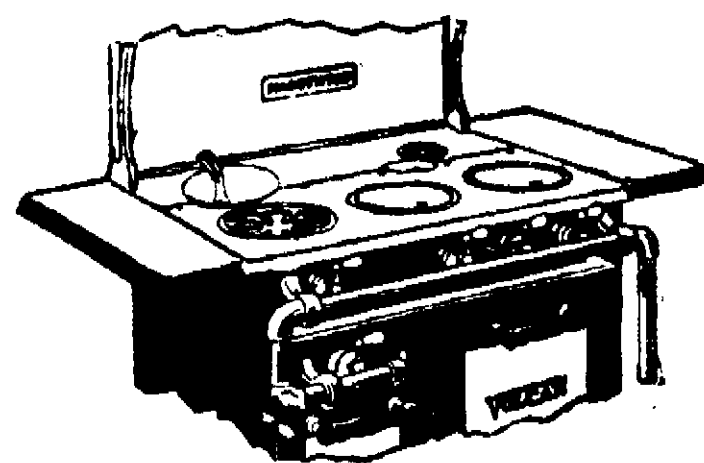

Issues Maps of Roads.

The provincial minister of roads of Quebec issues a map of roads of that province, the first of its kind ever issued in Canada, and which is of great interest to motorists, especially from the United States.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Multisifed coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisifed in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub the Multisifed in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rises out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisifed coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisifed.

TWO ADDRESS KIWANIS CLUB

Dr. A. A. Stern, Member of 1,000 Broken Bones, Tells About Them And Miss Hobbs Explains Y. W. C. A.

Dr. A. A. Stern gave the occupational talk at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon Thursday, his subject being "Fractures." He got the undivided attention of a man who has treated over 4,000 bone breaks deserves, although he mentioned this total merely among other statistics at the close of the address. Among these fractures which he has recorded have been 236 of the skull, spine, 22, collar bones, 328, arm bones, 854, chest 332, pelvis 65, leg 1,514, foot 267, face 135, miscellaneous 200.

Treatment of fractures has changed but little since the most ancient times. Scientific terms omitted, the practice consists in placing the broken ends together and binding them there until nature, patient from using the affected part, meanwhile, Modern surgery has, of course, improved methods of treating compound and other complicated fractures, removing splintered bone and even grafting new bone or replacing it with metal. Age and condition of the patient's constitution determine the rate of healing; while a baby's bones may be broken at birth, they are much more pliable and knit quicker than an adult's. In old age the bones are extremely brittle. Sex plays no part.

Miss Maud D. Hobbs, secretary of the National Board of the Young Woman's Christian Association, spoke on the proposed Y. W. C. A. along the same lines she had taken before the Rotary club the day before.

Arthur J. Burns, district trustee of the club, reported on a trustees' convention he attended last month.

"General" Sam Stern's army again mustered two more buck privates than "General" Burns's in the attendance contest.

Sam Stern won the attendance prize, a spot light donated by Robert Martin, Buick agency manager here.

ST. PIERRE HAVEN OF RUM FLEETS

Once Famous Fishing Port, Pride of French "New World," Now Port of Bootleggers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

St. Pierre, Miquelon, March 23.—The Miquelons, a minute island group of the southern coast of Newfoundland, one-time proudest possession of France in the New World, are again coming into their own. Headlines in the daily papers again mention the tiny group—but for a sadly different reason than was their old-time fame.

Practically every rum runner captured off the American coast today shows on its clearance papers that St. Pierre, Miquelon, is its "official destination." And yet the world hardly knows of the existence of the little archipelago.

Forty years ago St. Pierre, capital of the islands, was the leading fishing port of the world. Today it is a striving little parish clinging desperately to the customs of old France. It is a gray village, with a glorious past and no apparent future. A quarter of the houses are vacant, and the quays, once thronged with vessels whose jardarms interlocked, now have but a sprinkling of ships, even at the height of the fishing season.

Crushed and buffeted about during the struggle between France and England for supremacy in the New World, the Miquelons are today paying the price for allegiance to the vanquished. The Miquelons, after Canada was ceded to victorious Britain, were returned to France as a "consolation prize," the little islands to serve as a base on this side of the Atlantic for the great fishing industry built up by the French.

The Miquelon Archipelago consists of Grand Miquelon, some 12 miles long by 6 wide; Petite Miquelon or Longlade, a trifle smaller, and St. Pierre, only 7 miles by 2. In addition, there are a number of tiny rocky islets of little importance. St. Pierre, though the smallest of the three major islands, has always been the center of population because of its harbor. In its heyday the little town was covered with handsome residences, and there was a social life that made St. Pierre a miniature Paris.

But the Miquelons' prosperity and easy money went short by a prosaic "factor-haul." Affairs of Empire in 1901 moved fishermen in Paris to sell the French treaty rights to catch small fish on the Newfoundland coast for some millions of francs and territory in Africa. The Newfoundland fishermen, long jealous of their French rivals, seized their chance and jammed through the "Balt act," which prohibited the sale of bait to alien vessels, and thus did the Miquelons wane.

The picture today is a sad one. The population has dropped from 6,000 to less than 2,000, and the thousands of fishermen who thronged the streets of St. Pierre in the fishing season are missing. And yet despite misfortune the tiny village struggles valiantly on, clinging to the remnants of the past.

A visitor stepping ashore at St. Pierre enters France as truly as though he were disembarking at Calais or Bordeaux. The language of the populace is surprisingly pure, and free from patois. Wooden houses, with characteristic French windows and roofs, line the streets. Natives chatter back and forth in wooden-soled shoes. Buckster children, quaintly dressed, peddle strings of end-tongues from little wagons drawn by patient dogs. On every hand are shrines testifying to the religious nature of the Miquelons.

And this is the picture of the Miquelons, one-time most famous fishing center of the world—today the "official destination" of rum runners.

K. H. S. HEARS OF Y. W. C. A. WORK

Miss Maud D. Hobbs, of the National board for Y. W. C. A. work, was at the high school Thursday morning, and told of some of the benefits of the Y. W. C. A. in a city. The Y. W. C. A. stands for service. It stands for loyalty and service to the organization and to school as well. The spirit of the organization is one of helpfulness, and wherever they are located it is for the purpose of helping the people there. There are 1,152 Y. W. C. A. buildings in the United States, with a total of over 650,000 members. The organization is no club, nor is it a creed, nor does it profess to be a church. It is none of these things, and yet more than all put together, the organization is a center for comradeship. Wherever there exists a good comradeship there is service. Some wonder what they will get out of a membership in the Y. W. C. A. They should not ask what they will get out of it, but how much they can put into it, not in money but in spirit, comradeship and service. It is this spirit that makes the organization worth while.

The organization offers chances for development, in body as well as in mind. The gymnasium offers chances for the girls to get the exercise that they need, to develop a strong and healthy body, as the Y. M. C. A. does for the men. A definition of the Y. W. C. A. might be given as one that forms the body, informs the mind, and transforms the spirit.

In comparison to the great number of them in this country, there is one swimming pool in all Japan, and that is in the "Y" in Tokio. It is proving exceedingly popular, and the Japanese are asking that the Americans bring more of them to the country.

The Y. W. C. A. building offers a place for the working girls who have no home in their place of employment for them to stay. It is a home to them, with friends to make things as comfortable for them as they can. The organization means something worth while to these girls. It is a place where strangers in town may feel safe to stay, or to drop in for a sociable time while in the town. It is a community center where the young people may meet each other, where the different organizations can hold their meetings.

The first Y. W. C. A. in this country was in Boston, organized in 1858 with an humble membership. The girls there had as their chief entertainment such games as checkers, tiddly-winks, and parchisi. Times have changed and so have girls. The girl of today would not be content with these amusements, they want and need something more, gymnasium equipment, different games, basketball, volley ball and many other things which were not thought of in those days. The buildings are much better equipped to-day, in fact the whole system is on a higher plane. From the little group in 1858, there has grown the present large number of organizations in this country, and in addition the work has been extended to across the seas. Today there are workers in Japan, China, India, and many other countries of the world. The work in China is exceptionally important, for there are some two million industrial workers who need some such influence, and about seventy-five percent of them are women. At Ellis Island the organization has a station where there are women who can speak all tongues, to help the incoming Americans to get on the right path in their new home. The work is great, and is appreciated wherever it is known. The speaker closed with the hope that the workers in Kingston would have good luck with their plan for bringing the organization to this city.

PREPAREDNESS ASSURES PLEASANT ENTERTAINING

How to Give a Dinner and Have Housewife Enjoy It With Guests.

Even without the help of a maid, a dinner for a few friends need not be hard to serve, say workers in the field of home economics at Cornell. Dishes that may be prepared in advance, they say, should be used as much as possible.

If a course before the meat is desired, fruit cocktail is a good choice, since it may be put on the table before the guests arrive.

A roast may be served next. The gravy should be made ahead of time and kept hot in a double boiler. Jelly to go with the dinner may be already on the table, or on the sideboard. Peas, beans, asparagus, or sprouts are preferable for a vegetable as they may be kept hot over hot water until ready to use. Potatoes in a casserole or baking dish are to be preferred.

The salad may be arranged and put in the ice box. If set on a tray, only one trip will be necessary to bring it on the table. The dressing should be prepared and should stand beside it ready to be added just before serving.

For dessert, anything that may be made in the forenoon is good, such as pie, gelatin, or cold pudding. The whipped cream or sauce that may be needed can likewise be prepared ahead of time.

The coffee should be ground and in the pot, ready to be started cooking or percolating between courses. The cups should be ready on the sideboard.

NEW STRAWBERRIES ARE PROMISING

Horticulturists at the New York Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, through the New York State Fruit Testing Cooperative Association, Inc., are introducing three new strawberries, the Beacon, the Bliss, and the Bouquet, developed on the station grounds, which give unusual promise for the garden or for commercial plantings. The three varieties cover almost the entire strawberry season in New York, Beacon being an early sort, Bouquet an early mid-season variety, and Bliss a late mid-season variety. All three varieties have been thoroughly tried out on the station grounds and are highly recommended by the station authorities for trial by strawberry growers.

Beacon, said to be one of the best early strawberries, ripens with Dunlap, long a standard early kind. It is described as drought resistant, productive, and of excellent quality. In five out of the last six years, the fruits of Beacon were rated as the handsomest of their season on the station grounds. Bouquet, ripening about half way between Beacon and Bliss, is characterized by large, light red berries of sweet, rich flavor. The fruit ships and keeps well, and the variety is highly recommended as a mid-season, main crop, market berry. The plants are said to be vigorous, productive, and healthy, but do not develop as many runners as is desirable for rapid propagation. Bliss, a late mid-season variety, produces large, handsome, bright red berries of excellent flavor and quality. The plants also stand high among commercial varieties because of their ability to yield well under adverse weather conditions. It is believed that all three of these new varieties are well worth a trial, at least on a small scale, both by the amateur gardener and by the commercial grower.

BOLERO MODE TO BE SPRING NOTE

French Dressmakers Contribute
Pleasing Style for the Present Season.

SERGE AND WHITE ORGANDIE

Combination of Favorite Materials
Fashionable—Plaited Balloon
Sleeves, Detachable Capes, Wristlet Frill, Features.

This season changes of styles in almost every instance are made through the details of the dress rather than through the cut, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. In collars, sleeves, capes and trimmings great variety is apparent. Many of the new models might almost be said to represent a gathering of ideas that have been advanced at various times over the last few years.

A Doeullet model is a smart spring dress with matching cape developed from navy blue serge. This model is entirely in the picture of the new styles for the coming spring and summer. It confirms the vogue of the straight, finely plaited skirt, the use of the little matching detachable cape, which in this instance is also plaited, the importance of the plaited balloon sleeve and wristlet frill and the narrow scarf collar, all of which presage the actual mode for 1923. Doeullet gives an aspect of the bolero to the dress by the manner of trimming the bodice, using, as he does, a silk braid in a brilliant red, bordered with a silver embroidery.

An Agnes model in a spring suit simulates the three-piece style with georgette crepe bodice of contrasting color. The original model was in navy blue wool repp with a bodice of ecru georgette, upon which there is an embroidery in deep red. The skirt is worn at a low hip line and is suspended by means of straps which are attached as a border to the bolero jacket.

Navy Blue Serge Revived.

The union of blue serge and white organdie is an important bit of news in the fashion world. Navy blue serge has been revived and brought into the foreground as a fashionable dress material. A few years ago this material was looked upon as the backbone of the wardrobe for the woman who could not be extravagant in her dress and must choose fabrics that were durable.

With its return to favor it has been lifted out of its oldtime place and made one of the extremes of fashion. As of old, however, white lingerie effects are introduced into the blue serge costume to make it more appealing. At the exclusive dressmaking establishments one sees the three-piece costume of blue serge with the entire blouse portion of white organdie.

Sometimes the lingerie effect is introduced in the skirt of a dress. A new model for spring, charming in its simplicity, is developed in blue serge with godet panels of blue or-

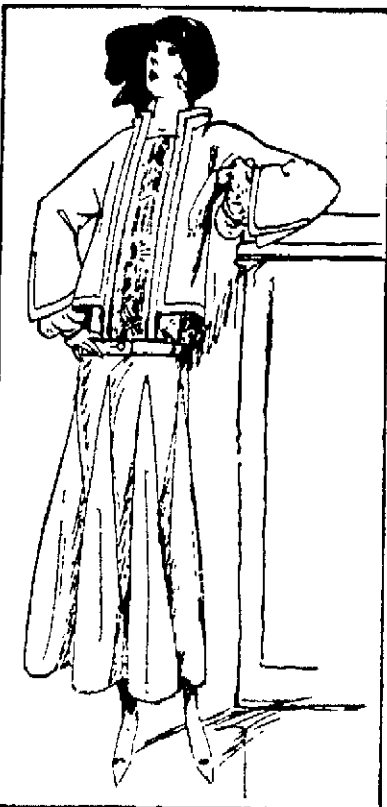

Chinese designs. Some crepe dresses show brilliant-hued embroideries on white wool backgrounds.

Discriminating women seemingly have not had enough of embroidery. Some of the new spring models in silk are literally embroidery-covered, the pattern being so exquisitely executed that it seems a part of the fabric. A beautiful dress of this character developed in charming armor is a lovely reddish tone with a cashmere design.

Has Three Armholes.

The dress is of a most unusual cut, seemingly passing around the figure three times, and in a way it has three armholes. The underlapping side has an armhole to hold it in place. The dress has two regulation armholes which support the sleeves and the dress fastens very far at the right side, quite contrary to the usual style of opening.

An irregular embroidery design is seen on an afternoon dress developed of crepe de chine, the needlework appearing on the panels at the sides of the skirt and surmounting open slashes in the front of the bodice. A sash in salmon pink emerges at one side of the dress, as if the underbodice were made by wrapping the figure and leaving the long ends free to tie in a bow on the outside of the dress. The novel, half-way roll collar shows the same embroidery.

An attractive model is developed of crepe georgette with delicate hand embroidery. The dress is in one-piece style with the waistline higher than that most popular at the present time. There are overhanging panels closely plaited and mounted with a delicate handwork done on the crepe georgette. A smart touch is given through the use of a scarf sash of tulle which is attached at the left side with a bouquet of frosted silver flowers. When worn, this scarf is thrown carelessly around the neck, passing the back and the left arm and crossing the throat.

The use of high-colored prints in crepe marocain and crepe de chine is still much in vogue. The newest patterns are in Cambodge or Hindu-Chinese style, but there also are many Persian and cashmere prints.

Many of the newest afternoon dresses for spring will be made of crepe romain of that quality which resembles crepe georgette, but has considerable more body and is more durable. A charming new model developed from gray crepe romain is trimmed with hand-plaited bands of faille ribbon set into open interstices which are embroidered all around. Giving further ornamentation and weight to the dress are broad panels of tiny hand-run tucks at the front and back.

Black and White in Favor.

Many black and white combinations are being emphasized. A new embroidery done with a self-cording in conjunction with machine stitching done in metal threads is used by one great French designer. This embroidery appears on a simple but attractive model of white crepe marocain, the cording being done on the sleeves, the yoke and the skirt. The gold thread stitching is in the form of diamond-shaped motifs at both the back and front of the dress.

In a city so full of romantic interest as Paris it is natural for the dressmakers to seek inspiration in the exquisite silhouettes of bygone days, and among the simple, flowerlike frocks often seen an amusing note is introduced by picture dresses, the ideas having been taken from the marvelous portraits which abound in the Musee du Louvre.

Now and then one sees a frail young miss in a very full tulle dress of the palest shade imaginable. The skirt may be trimmed with bands and rosettes of pink satin ribbon of varying lengths, while the round neck, tulle bodice, with little puffed sleeves, is untrimmed. The full tulle skirt is usually hung over a straight, rather narrow foundation slip of pink satin. Or, again, the full skirt may be entirely dotted with tiny velvet flowers in a darker shade than the tulle.

Corsettes With Fur.

Corsettes outlined with fur are used on the thinnest of chiffon and georgette frocks. The single rose is most effective trimmed this way.

The "farmer" feeling that is in all of us

The feeling, the instinct of the farmer, the love of the soil, of growing things, is in most of us. Few can go back into family history very far without finding farmer ancestors.

Knowing this, we believe that a simple statement of what the Dairyman's League Co-operative Association, Inc., is and why its products are good, is the best way we can sell them.

The Dairyman's League territory is the "dairy land" of the country. The weather, the soil, and all conditions are more favorable for dairy farming than for any other kind. It has become the dairy section by its very nature.

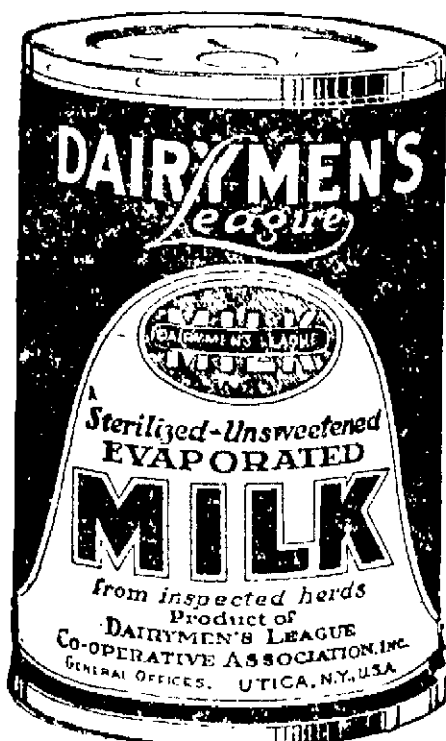

In this territory 70,000 farmers devote their lives to dairy farming—to the production of pure milk and dairy products. These are not all the farmers in this territory. A farmer must have the right kind of farm and cows to belong to the Dairyman's League. They are in a life business. Collectively, they have chosen their lot and they must stick to it. So they determined that everything they produced should be of a definite, high standard of quality that must be maintained.

When you buy Dairyman's League Evaporated or Condensed Milk you are sure of getting "creamy milk" that is good. And it will be the same quality today, tomorrow, and next year.

If your grocer doesn't sell Dairyman's League Evaporated Milk, tell him to write to us and let us show him why he should.

gandle set into the skirt. These organdie panels are much elaborated, with a sort of passementerie trimming made from the organdie. Similar panels appear on the sleeves, and there is a belt of the organdie.

An excess of embroidery characterizes many of the new dresses. They are not only adorned with embroidery, but they are covered with it. A dress from Worth typical of the new embroidery effects is developed from Havana brown crepe mongol with an all-over design in Chinese effect done in the same tone.

Peculiar embroideries of all kinds are being much used on light wool crepe dresses and on cotton and georgette models. Many of the designs are taken from rare old pieces of peasant work, notably those from Russia and other Slavic countries. Interest also is manifest in Hindu-

A Little Tree's Life.
I never see a little tree bursting from the earth, peeping confidently up among the withered leaves without wondering how long it will live and what trials and tribulations it will have. It will better and beautify the earth; love the blue sky and the white clouds passing by and over join merrily in the movement and the music of the elemental dances with the winds. It will welcome the flower-opening days of spring, be a home for the birds, and enjoy the summer rain. And when comes the golden peace of autumn days I trust it will be ready with ripened fruit for the life to come. I never fail to hope that if this tree is cut down it may be used for a flag-pole to keep our glorious banner.

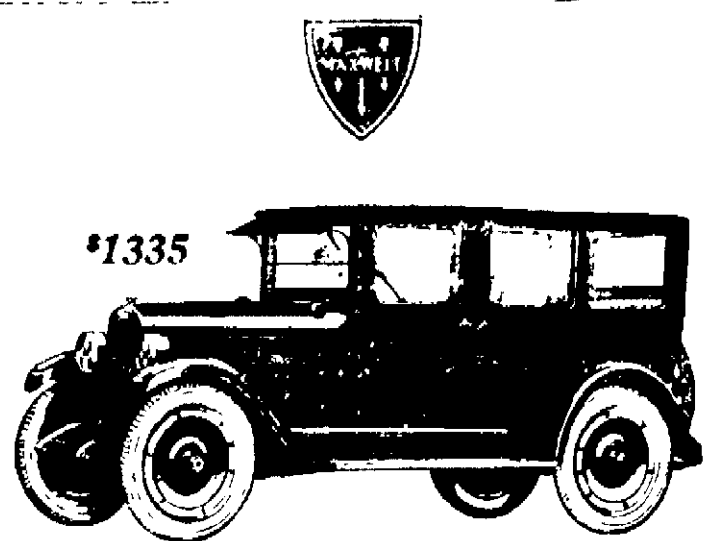

in the breeze, or be built into a cottage where love will abide; or, if it must be burnt, that it will blaze on the hearth-stone in a home where children play in the firelight on the floor.
—Enos A. Mills.

The City Man's Garden.
The city man's backyard garden is an inherited expression of the crop-growing instinct. What of the man who hates gardening and flower planting? He probably likes to roam in the woods and fish—a throwback to ancestors who lived by fishing and hunting. They were roamers, unlike the soil tillers. Another type in spring goes crazy on sport. If they could trace their family trees for enough, they'd probably find gladators and professional soldiers at the roots. Nature intended all men to be tillers of the soil. Wandering therefrom, we have economic and health problems that result from congestion. From these we revolt in springtime—revert to type—fish, roam, plant vegetables, trees, grass and flowers.

Best Concrete Material.
Experiments in France have shown that concrete made with slag is seldom weaker and generally stronger than that in which gravel is used, at the same time weighing less.

INTERBLOCK CO. MEMBERS MEET

Difficulties of Establishing First Store Here Are Recounted and Continued Support Is Pledged.

A large and enthusiastic get-together and get acquainted meeting of the members of the Interblock Grocery Company was held Thursday afternoon and evening at the office, 5 O'Neil street. The women members meeting in the afternoon and the men members in the evening. The ladies attending outnumbered the men several times showing conclusively who buys the family groceries.

Mr. Davis, president of the company gave a brief sketch of the origin of the company, its objects and purposes, explained to the members what it meant to them and to the city of Kingston.

Mr. Cole, director of memberships, outlined his struggles in getting members and money sufficient to open a first store. He likened it to Robert Fulton when he built his first steamboat. An incredulous public said he could never make it go, but when he pulled the throttle open she moved off through the water they shouted, "he can never stop her." So with him, many told him he could never make it go, and said "You will never open a store," but he pulled the throttle wide open and kept it open, now you can't stop him, the first store is open and he is now well on the way to the second store.

Mr. Reben, manager, I. Barth & Son's Kingston plant, gave an interesting review of how he became a member of the company. When first brought to his attention he was somewhat skeptical, but upon investigation found its fundamental principles were good. With this and the strong persuasion of the real grocery buyer, Mrs. Reben, he joined.

Members pledged their continued support and cooperation toward the success of the enterprise.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Linkletter, both members of the company.

SPRING STREET LUTHERAN CHURCH SERVICE PROGRAM.

In the Spring Street Lutheran Church 25 children will be confirmed at the English service next Sunday morning 10:30. The church will be beautifully decorated and the service of the highest order. The subject of a short sermon will be, "The Voyage of Life." The evening service will be in German. The service on Wednesday evening at 7:30 will be in English, and will be a preparatory service for Holy Communion on Good Friday and Easter. Communicants should not fail to attend this service. The subject of sermon will be, "St. Paul's Instruction Regarding the Lord's Supper." On Good Friday, service with Holy Communion will be held in German at 10:30 a. m. We expect our people to observe this most sacred day. The anniversary of the death of our Lord. On Easter Sunday service with Holy Communion will be held in German at 10:30 a. m., and in English at 7:30 p. m., when the newly confirmed children will receive their first Communion. Announcements for Holy Communion on Good Friday and Easter are requested next Sunday evening and Wednesday evening after service in the school hall and Thursday at the parsonage. Lutherans residing in the nearby villages are invited to the Holy Communion. They may make announcement by phone or letter.

Early Bulbs Made to Burn Upward.

When Thomas A. Edison first produced light by electricity all of his lamps were constructed with the point of the bulb upward, as it occurred neither to Edison nor to the men who were associated with him that any light could be handled successfully unless the flame were allowed to ascend. Although Edison genius had succeeded in producing light by electricity, the inventor's everyday familiarity with the common gas jet with its ascending flame blinded him for a time to the fact that his new light could be produced with the lamp in any position. Thus were all of the early electric chandeliers constructed in such a way that the individual bulbs could be set upright in their sockets.

Blueing Metal.

There are several methods of blueing steel. You might try the following: Scour the steel with a small quantity of strong aqueous solution of soda, rinse with water and brush over with a solution of one-quarter ounce of chloride of iron dissolved in five ounces of water and let dry; then apply in the same manner a solution of one-fifth ounce of pyrogallic acid to one ounce of water, dry and brush. This should then be lacquered in order to be durable. The articles being blueed should have their surfaces cleaned and polished. They may then be heated to a temperature of 500 to 600 degrees according to depth of color required.

Peculiar Sleeping Position.

A winged ant or a moth will take hold of a stalk of grass or weed with its mandibles and while hanging on at right angles take a nap. Winds may blow, the grass may wave and toss like a ship in a storm, but the napper goes on napping. It is as if a man clamped his teeth on a rope and then went to sleep, high in the air. Only the insect's jaws stay set while it sleeps, in much the same way as the foot of a chicken clamps itself on a roost at night and does not open again till morning. A chicken's foot is so constructed that when the knees bend the toes close like a vise.

Determining Ship's Tonnage.

The first rule in this country for determining the tonnage of ships was adopted by congress in 1790, but it was not correct and some shipbuilders and masters availed greatly by clever

LIQUID HELIUM IS PRODUCED AT TORONTO COLLEGE

Professor Succeeds in Getting Method Down to Exactitude.

CLOSE TO THE ABSOLUTE ZERO

In Liquefaction Professor McLennan Got Temperature of 272 Degrees Below Zero, Centigrade—Makes Possible Research in Problems in Electricity, Magnetism, Spectroscopy, Specific and Atomic Heats and Other Properties of Matter.

Liquefaction of helium, which has just been accomplished by Prof. J. C. McLennan at the University of Toronto, is regarded as one of the most important achievements in recent years in the field of pure science. Helium was liquefied once before—some fifteen years ago in the University of Leyden, Holland—but the scale on which Professor McLennan has carried out the new liquefaction gives his experiment an entirely new significance and makes it an event of prime importance. In itself, liquid helium is so far a substance with no practical utility, but the process of manufacture perfected by Professor McLennan opens up a hitherto unexplored world in scientific research and may lead to practical discoveries of immense importance.

In his experiments Professor McLennan reached a temperature of 272 degrees below zero, centigrade. The absolute zero of science (theoretically the lowest temperature that is conceivable) is 273 degrees below zero. Absolute zero used to be regarded by scientists as something like infinity, a conception for theoretical purposes, but nothing that could be nailed down or examined. But now Professor McLennan is within one degree of absolute zero.

Opens Wide Research.

Availability of such a temperature will make possible research in problems in electricity, magnetism, spectroscopy, specific and atomic heats and other general properties of matter, in fact, practically the whole range of subjects covered in the department of physics, as well as in important problems in chemistry, bacteriology, and perhaps others of the sciences.

For example, there is the great mystery of electricity. This generation has become so familiar with the uses of electricity that it forgets that it is as great a mystery as when Benjamin Franklin was called a charlatan because he declared lightning was electricity. Whole libraries of books and treatises do not and cannot today explain what actually happens in the simplest electric phenomenon, as when an electric current passes through a copper wire. There are theories but nobody knows. The hope that liquid helium may solve the riddle of electricity lies in the fact that as temperature declines resistance to an electric current declines and it is conceivable that at a sufficiently low temperature a current would go on and on forever. If liquid helium does not completely solve the riddle it is at least going to reveal a great deal more about electricity's properties than has hitherto been known. Similarly with a wide range of other problems.

Modify Matter?

Will matter undergo modification at a temperature within one degree of absolute zero? Will atomic and molecular energy disappear? These and similar questions which are almost fundamental in the realms of science are now in a fair way to be answered.

The cost of Professor McLennan's experiments has not exceeded $100,000. That is a fact he is very proud of, because, he says, the United States congress voted the sum of $5,000,000 for precisely the same work and has not yet met with success. "It has been a race," he said, "and naturally we are gratified." Professor McLennan's funds came from four different sources, namely, the British government, the Canadian Council of Scientific Research, the University of Toronto, and finally $12,000 from the Carnegie foundation.

Helium is one of the most interesting of the elements. It was not discovered until 1868, when by lines on the spectroscopic presence of a hitherto unknown element was discovered to be one of the constituents of the sun. From the fiery sun it was named helium; now it produces a degree of cold so extreme as to be beyond comprehension. It was not until 1905 that its presence on the earth was discovered. Even current standard dictionaries refer to it as a "hypothetical elementary substance" supposed to exist in the atmosphere of the sun.

As a gas it is extremely light, possessing 92 per cent of the buoyancy of hydrogen. But the thing for which it has been chiefly notorious is that it is the isothermal of chemistry, it is absolutely inert and cannot be combined with any other element; it will not explode, it will not even burn.

Use for Balloons.

Light and non-flammable, a use for helium which was at once obvious was the possibility of utilizing it in dirigible balloons; for hydrogen, which hitherto had the field of lightness all to itself, is notoriously inflammable, as numerous tragedies of the air affirm. During the war the Germans would have given a kingdom for such a supply of helium for their vulnerable Zeppelins as the University of Toronto now possesses. But up till 1915 a small test tube full was a large quantity of helium to be found in any one place. About that year all the war nations set out to look for helium in quantity. And Professor McLennan was commissioned by the board of invention and research of the British admiralty to search Canada.

Professor McLennan had been on the job before and he knew where to look. Helium, he had found, was a constituent of certain gas wells in Canada as well as in the United States, and so, to the consternation of railway officials, this university professor set out with a carload of empty bottles. They thought he was decidedly "queer" even when he explained he was going to fill the bottles with gas and send them back to the university to be tested.

In the gas wells in Alberta, south of Calgary, Professor McLennan found that there was by comparison large quantities of helium. It was going to waste. As the illuminating gas was burnt the helium simply went off with the smoke.

Balfour "Not Interested."

When Professor McLennan reported his find to the Admiralty, Mr. Balfour, then first lord, was not interested. The scheme, he thought, was visionary. But Lord Fisher granted $30,000 at once, and a plant for the separation of helium was erected in Calgary. There was immediately a slump in the price of helium. It dropped from $1,500 a cubic foot to 10 cents.

By this time the war was over, and the race for non-inflammable dirigible balloons collapsed. Helium can be used for other things, such as toy balloons, as a safe substitute for oil as a contact breaker in transformers, in signal lamps and so on, but such uses are limited.

So the British government made a present to Professor McLennan of all the helium gas he had secured and told him he might go ahead with his experiments. The helium plant in Calgary, still owned by the British government is not now operating, but no doubt will be made available if more helium is required.

That is how the University of Toronto happens to be the possessor of a practically unlimited quantity of what was up till four years ago one of the rarest elements. This unique distinction will undoubtedly make it a Mecca for physicists. The experiments so far have used only a small fraction of the supply of gas already available.

Apparatus Necessary.

Professor McLennan's next problem was to secure the apparatus which would enable him to carry out his experiments with this strange element. What he required was a cryogenic laboratory, that is a laboratory designed to produce and experiment with freezing mixtures. The first step was a compressor plant for the manufacture of liquid air installed in 1920 and capable of producing 600 pounds of liquid air in a day. Oxygen and nitrogen are also liquefied by the same plant. A temperature of 200 degrees below zero is obtainable with liquid air. The next year a plant for liquefying hydrogen was installed and temperatures of from 272 to 250 degrees below zero were secured.

Finally last year a plant was designed and with the assistance of apparatus from Germany, erected for the assault upon helium, an assault which now has been successful with a temperature within one degree of absolute zero. The event occasioned great excitement in the university, particularly in the science departments. So exact is the method that Professor McLennan is able to give public demonstrations of it at will. He is leaving now for a tour of European universities to extend over several months no doubt for the purpose of collecting information which will be of assistance in the much greater problems now to be attacked.

Expect New Discoveries.

While the field of low temperatures may now be expected to give up its secrets, there remains a wide range of high temperature which is still unexplored and so far unattainable. The scale of known temperatures extends as high as 20,000 degrees centigrade in nebular bodies, but 4,000 degrees is about the greatest temperature that has been attained in laboratory experiments.

Professor McLennan is not at all the ordinary type of university scientist. He has a tall, high complexioned physique and eyes so bright and countenance, a full, broad, smiling mouth and a hand that is no doubt about the humanness of his mentality apart from its scientific side. He has been head of the department of physics for 20 years and has previously accomplished much notable work. In addition to his services respecting helium, he performed during the war a very brilliant piece of work in connection with the detection of submarines.

Death Ends Honeymoon Trip in Car.

In a dispute over a card game, Walter Melowitz, thirteen years old, of Chicago, was shot and killed by Robert Rutkowski, thirteen years old, who is in jail. The boys were playing when an argument arose over a deal. Robert shot Walter when the latter declared the "gun wouldn't go off."

Gulls' Good Work.
Gulls are among the most perfect specimens of nature's wonderful handicraft. No creature could be better fitted for the rough life it has to lead. To enable them to withstand cold and wet, the bodies of these birds contain great quantities of oil, and as lungs would not hold oxygen enough for the great efforts they must make in stormy weather, all their larger bones are hollow and act as air reservoirs. Their part in life seems to be to keep the near coast waters of the ocean clean and tidy; without them by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

No matter how humble your position, how small your earnings or how restricted the circumstances in which you find yourself, there is always the possibility of bettering your condition through thrift. Progress may seem slow at first, but persistence and determination will win in the end.

There died recently in a New Jersey city a man whose life was an exemplification of the value of thrift as a means of rising from poverty and obscurity. For many years he had been one of the foremost manufacturers of the East. He had not only utilized his ability in the upbuilding of a great business, but he had become an art patron of note. Yet he began working at the age of ten in a Yorkshire cotton mill where he put in seventy-two hours a week at a weekly wage of thirty-two cents. By the time he was seventeen he had saved enough to pay his passage to America, and the Yorkshire firm where he had been employed made him a present of a five-pound note. His first job in this country brought him four dollars a week.

But he saved, worked hard and gradually advanced.

The story is not an unusual one, yet it illustrates thoroughly what can be accomplished through thrift.

It was the practices of those early days of his career when it was necessary to follow the most rigid economies — when his savings grew penny by penny — that brought about the success that came to him in his later years and enabled him to enrich and ennoble the lives of others.

When we gaze at a beautiful structure we are apt to pay little attention to the foundation. Often when we contemplate a successful life we think too little of the early struggles and hardships without which no man ever really succeeds. Bear in mind it is not the amount of money one saves that counts as much in the long run as the moral stamina and the indomitable will that are developed through the processes of saving.

The city of Detroit's judgment on motor car values has a far-reaching influence. Away down in Argentina, the city of Buenos Aires has just bought a fleet of 32 Dodge Brothers motor cars. Dodge Brothers car was chosen, according to city officials, because Detroit has more than 100 of them in its municipal service, with an impressive record for dependability and economy. All the cars are for the use of the police department, which is rated as one of the most efficient in the world. In the fleet are 20 touring cars, five limousines and seven ambulances.

MARTIN LOSES HIS ACTION

For Damages From Brooklyn Eagle —Lewis J. Hallenbeck Sues Steve O'Connor for Pay for Erection of Poles.

A verdict of no cause for action was returned Thursday afternoon in supreme court in the action brought by Rupert Martin against the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, an action for breach of contract. Mr. Martin sued for $2,500 alleged damages, through the wrong name being inserted under his advertisement in the summer resort section of the newspaper and also alleged that by reason of the wrong address and the advertisement being inserted under the Shawangunk and Sullivan county heading instead of under the Catskill mountain caption he lost business. He also alleged that the advertisement also appeared under the Pennsylvania resort caption and that his address in the advertisement appeared "Eddyville, Pa."

Mr. Martin conducts a boarding house business on the Rondout creek and adjoining the old Delaware & Hudson canal which is used as a bathing pool. The verdict of no cause for action was returned late Thursday afternoon and Walter N. Gill, attorney for plaintiff, asked that the verdict be set aside and when the motion was denied asked for the usual time in order to make an appeal. This motion was granted but later attorney for the defendant asked not to tax costs if judgment was entered immediately and no appeal taken.

An action for labor and material, growing out of the erection of the electric lighting plant at Pine Hill, was taken up next. John W. Eckert appeared for Lewis J. Hallenbeck who is suing Steve O'Connor, owner of the lighting plant, for $685 which it is claimed is due plaintiff for labor and material supplied in erecting the poles for the street lights.

Hallenbeck, who resides at Woodland Valley, has for several years past been in the contracting business erecting poles for telephone lines, etc. Mr. Hallenbeck purchases poles and sells them or erects the poles when desired. According to his view of the case he and Mr. O'Connor entered into a contract to set poles for the electric light wires in Pine Hill. He agreed to supply poles thirty feet high for $8 each set, and thirty-five foot poles for $9 each set. At the time he claims that O'Connor did not know which pole would be required. He also stated that he thought he could supply cross arms for the poles at a certain price if required. He was awarded the contract to erect the poles and during the winter of 1922 did erect 108 poles. Mr. Hallenbeck claims that Mr. O'Connor told him that a Mr. Horn would have charge of the work and would inspect the poles and the holes before the poles were set, also that Mr. Horn would stake out the position of the poles.

Mr. Hallenbeck testified that he completed the setting of 108 poles as agreed and then Mr. O'Connor asked him to quote him prices on certain other higher poles. Mr. Hallenbeck testified that O'Connor told him that he was going to erect a joint line with the telephone company for a part of the distance in the village and required higher poles for this. Mr. Hallenbeck quoted prices on 40 foot, 15 foot, 50 foot and 55 foot poles. The price was objected to, according to the contractor but later O'Connor told him to go ahead as he needed the poles. Two 55 foot poles, two 50 foot poles, one 45 foot pole and one 10 foot pole were erected to carry the electric light line over the telephone lines. Other high poles were erected which brought up the total amount due Mr. Hallenbeck to $1,965. Mr. O'Connor paid him $1,280 and the action is brought for the difference, $685. Mr. Hallenbeck claims that before each pole was erected, Mr. Horn, representing Mr. O'Connor, inspected the pole and the hole, that each pole was erected in a proper manner and that they were afterward tamped down.

No cross arms were supplied and Mr. Hallenbeck cut and drilled some of the poles for cross-arms but testified that when he saw no man was going to be supplied by Mr. O'Connor to cut and drill the other poles for cross-arms he pulled off his own man and erected the poles without being fixed for cross-arms.

Ewald Menzel with Isidore Sampson appear for Mr. O'Connor who is a resident of New York. John W. Eckert appears for Mr. Hallenbeck.

What Makes You Sneeze?

Sneezing, like breathing, or the action of the heart, is involuntary and for the most part beyond conscious control. The nose, as the natural breathing apparatus, is furnished with a very delicate "filter" against dust and germs. From this membrane the brain stretches a "telephone" nerve. When the membrane is irritated by dust, or inflammation, or in any way, a danger signal is automatically flashed to the brain, which then orders a sneeze to clear away the foreign intruder. A sharp intake of breath is caused, the windpipe is momentarily closed, and the sneeze has to find an exit from the nose, thus cleaning the membrane filter in the process.

Bar the Lightning Bolt.

Lightning is quite likely to follow a draught or current of air, so during a storm it is wise to keep the windows and doors closed. If you are out in the open, don't run; running creates a draught that may be just enough to provide the path of least resistance that the lightning is looking for. If in an open space in which you are the tallest object, make yourself as small as possible; in other words, lie down! If you must shelter under a tree, select a beech, and avoid oak trees like poison; the chances of an oak being struck are 67 times greater than those of a beech. Better still, keep away from trees, especially isolated ones.

BAG MUCH WILD GAME WITHIN CITY LIMITS

Hunters Get Black Bears, Wild-oats and Coyotes Inside Boundaries of Seattle.

Hunting with "boun" dogs within the municipal limits of Seattle, Wash., where more than 400,000 folks reside, Miss Thelma Hueston and her brother, Melvin, have since Christmas bagged seven black bears, five wildcats, two coyotes and twelve raccoons. The two hunters give all the credit to three of the most remarkable dogs in the Northwest. Louder, Thunder and Kate form a pack that for keen olfactory senses beat any other trio of dogs in smelling out a bear den. The hunting has been done in a densely wooded canyon, a natural cleft in the northwest section of the city and skirting the Great Northern tracks toward Everett.

Miss Hueston and Melvin have in competition in their all-city hunting escapade an opponent in Mike Wheelahan, a trapper who has laid out and successfully operates a trap line right in the heart of Seattle. Beginning at the Brace-Hergert lumber mill on Lake Union, ten blocks from the main post office, Wheelahan proceeds along the bluff of Queen Anne Hill with sets for mink, skunk and muskrats. Swinging along the Government canal connecting Lake Union with Lake Washington, all within the city limits, Wheelahan has a line of various sized traps secreted on the muddy shores of the larger body of water. During January, February and part of March the pelts of the furbearers are in prime condition.

Thus far he reports having taken mink, weasel, skunk, muskrat, otter and raccoon, all in hailing distances of city homes and in places where dogs and cats romp daily. Wheelahan declares it proves that the nocturnal life of the average furbearer can be lived, with proper adjustment, in a city just as well as in the unbroken wilderness.

WITH HIS BARE HANDS

Austrian Peasant, Age 71, Captures a Big Golden Eagle.

Capturing a full-grown golden eagle alive in his arms has brought local fame to a seventy-one-year-old peasant living in the Arlberg mountains on the Austrian side of the Bavarian frontier.

The man was approaching his haystack when he spied the eagle devouring a roebuck which it apparently had just killed by severing the animal's jugular vein. When it noticed him the eagle tried to fly away, but snow on the ground impeded its rise. The peasant rushed forward and, gathering the huge bird's wings and claws in his arms, succeeded in carrying it away captive despite its vicious attempts to get free.

RUBBER CEMENT KILLS MAN

Seals His Mouth and Throat and Pins His Body to Floor.

Suffocation resulting from his mouth and throat being sealed with rubber cement is believed to have caused the death of Thomas Cripps, sixty years old, watchman in a building at Rochester, N. Y. Cripps' body was found under the open faucet of a barrel of cement, pinned fast to the floor. It is believed Cripps either slipped and fell or became ill and collapsed before being smothered by the cement, which was used in the manufacture of shoes by a firm in the building.

BLIND YOUTH WINS HONORS

"My Mother Is My Eyes," Says Young Man Who Took Two Scholarships.

Blind since birth, George H. Weinmann, twenty-three years old, of Chicago, has accomplished that which no student at Northwestern university with perfect eyesight has done—won two law school scholarships during the same term.

"My mother is my eyes," he said. "She reads all my work to me and I finish the work just like any other student. I keep my notes on a special form of slate in the raised dots of the Braille system, the language of the blind. All my work is finished on a standard typewriter."

EAT WAY OUT OF JAIL

Prisoners' Appetites Too Costly, So Fines Are Reduced.

Finding the appetites of two prisoners in the jail at University City, St. Louis county, Missouri, fast increasing the indebtedness of the town, Justice A. A. Ladd, police judge, reduced their combined fines from $750 to $200, a sum which they were able to pay, and the men were at liberty. The prisoners, Otto Dix, a saloon-keeper, and his bartender, Harry Bischer, were committed for violation of the town's bone-dry law.

New Record for Bible Reading.

Reading in relays of 15 minutes each, 70 members of the Sileam Methodist Episcopal church, at Philadelphia, read the New Testament, or about half of the Bible, in seventeen and one-half hours. The test was to encourage Bible reading.

WOMEN'S MISSION A SUCCESS

At St. Peter's Church This Week—Men's Mission Begins on Sunday Evening and to Last a Week.

During the past week the holy mission given by the Franciscan Fathers was preached to the women at St. Peter's. At each service, both morning and evening, the large attendance, increasing with each succeeding day, gave indubitable witness to its success. In the evening especially the church was crowded to capacity. This is a great source of gratification to the Rev. Pastor, Father Neumann, as well as to the Fathers Chrysostom and Daniel, O. F. M., who by their unusual eloquence, unerring zeal and irresistible personality, have endeared themselves to the people of St. Peter's parish.

The mission for the men will begin on Sunday evening and it is hoped that the services will be equally as well attended as were those of the women's mission. The same schedule of Masses and sermons will prevail generally during the coming week, any necessary changes will be announced from the altar at the Masses on Sunday.

Capt. Herbert Hartley

When the reconditioned Leviathan (formerly the Vaterland) takes the sea in June she will be commanded by Captain Herbert Hartley, now master of the liner Mongolia. Captain Hartley gained fame in 1917 when he took the liner St. Louis, armed, through the submarine zone, in defiance of the German order for American liners to keep away from European waters.

Wild Plants Valuable.

Many wild shrubs and plants which grow profusely in the semi-desert plateau region of Mexico have been found to contain valuable commercial properties. This is especially true of the wild guayule shrub from which crude rubber is extracted. It was about 25 years ago that the discovery was made by a chemist at Saltillo, Mexico, that the despised guayule shrub could be made to yield crude rubber in paying quantities. Following this discovery, the utilization of the desert shrub was started, and in the course of a few years became one of the important industries of Mexico. During the year immediately preceding the downfall of President Porfirio Diaz crude rubber from the guayule shrub to the value of $60,000,000 gold was exported from the Torreon consular district.

TAKES REVENGE ON PRISON PAL

Former Convict Trails Cell-Mate Who Duped His Mother When He Got His Liberty.

CAUGHT HIM ON TRAIN

Brooklyn Youth, Released From Prison, Started Out to Locate
False Friend Who Took $600
From Mother.

New York.—Simon Hecht, twenty-two years old, of Brooklyn, N. Y., finished a five-year term at Sing Sing prison, Ossining, N. Y., recently, and left prison with but one object in view—to find "Big Ben" Rosenheim. Ben and Simon had been on the same tier at Sing Sing during the few months before Ben was released. What use he made of his first week of liberty, Simon learned in a letter from his widowed mother. Ben had learned the address from the boy and as soon as he got out he had gone straight to Brooklyn.

"Big Ben" always could put up a front, and Simon's mother is credulous—doubly so when the welfare of Simon is concerned. She never doubted that the opulent stranger who had heard of her boy's sad case in some miraculous manner could obtain Simon's release, just as he said he could, for a retaining fee of a paltry $650.

Wrote Son About It.

The paltry $650 happened to be within a few dollars of the sum Simon's mother had in the savings bank. She made up the rest by borrowing from her neighbors and gave it to "Big Ben." Then she wrote Simon all about it and assured him he would soon be at liberty.

"Big Ben" hadn't even bothered to use another name, and Simon knew too well the use to which the older convict had placed the information he had wormed out of him. When he was released he took the first train for Brooklyn, and almost the first man on the train he saw was "Big Ben." He jumped on his former cell-mate and the train crew then held both until they reached New York, where "Big Ben" arrested, admitted the charge made against him.

DEATH CAUSED BY MISTAKE

Drug Firm Pays Widow $7,500 for Misreading of "A" for "H" in Filling Prescription.

Dorchester, Mass.—A mistake in two letters in filling a prescription was the difference between life and death, and it cost the Cole Drug company $7,500 for making the error.

The verdict was awarded by a jury. Five thousand dollars was for the death and $2,500 for the conscious suffering, the jurymen explained. The widow of Paul Valentelli won the verdict.

The fatal letters were "H" and "A." The prescription called for barium sulphate, and barium sulphite was given. The first aids in X-raying when taken internally, but the patient took the second and died in half an hour after intense agony.

Must Pay Alimony to Two Wives.

Chicago.—Frederick Magaw was ordered to pay alimony to both of his wives when he was arrested upon complaint of wife No. 2, who declared he owed her mother a big board bill. Magaw, who formerly earned $1,000 a week, moaned when he was ordered to pay $100 a month to his first wife and $75 a month to his second. He complained that business had fallen off considerably.

Telephone Operator Outwits Tornado.
Dundee, Tex.—G. W. Williams, telephone operator at the exchange here, outwitted a tornado recently. Williams saw the "twister" approaching and telephoned to farmers in its path. The farmers hurried to cyclone cellars and no loss of life was reported. Considerable property damage was done, however.

Prof. O. Abel, while admitting that the primitive history of the seal is obscure, says the most probable supposition is that these creatures originated from bears.

PINK CANDLE TORCH OF DAINTY THIEVES

Aesthetic Burglars in Delaware Villages Rob Only by Light of Tinted Tapers.

Seaford, Del.—Householders in the towns and villages of lower Delaware are greatly puzzled and much alarmed over the frequent incursions of a band of burglars who have been operating extensively in this section for more than six months. Notwithstanding the fact that these robbers always use pink candles to light them in their operations, and almost invariably leave large trails of the grease about the houses pillaged, no trace of the men has been found that promises to lead to their capture. Another peculiarity of this aesthetic band is that they never take nor disturb silverware, even though it be of the finest sterling.

The pink candle burglars take chickens, money and articles found about the home of the village folk, but they pass by jewelry, watches and silverware for some unknown reason and take other objects of questionable value.

Evidently the gang hunts in automobiles, for it carries away as many as 50 or 100 chickens at a time, and the most mystifying feature of the looting is that the burglars have never awakened a household nor an inmate of a dwelling they have robbed.

Bottle Preserved Safe.

On the porch of the abandoned post office at Markleville, which still bears the old sign because everybody knows the post office is now in the back of the general store, there is a large safe, also abandoned. It was left there by the superintendent of an Alpine county mine when the company failed years ago. A sympathetic traveler asked a cowboy if the residents knew what was in it, and why they did not open it for the possible contents. "Yes, sir," said the cowboy. "We know exactly what that safe contains, and we have held a many a rally to try to make up our minds what to do about it. She contains $6.40 and a bottle of whisky, and we are afraid to blow her open for fear of bustin' the bottle."

CHILD DIES TO KEEP TRUST

Locks Flaming Self in Kitchen So That Other Children Might Be Saved.

New York.—Stella Huckle, six years old, left to guard her little brother and sister while her mother went to the store, gave her life to keep her trust. When she attempted to light a gas stove in the home the flame set fire to her dress.

The little girl pushed the younger children into an adjoining room and locked herself in the kitchen. She tried with bare hands to extinguish the flames. A neighbor woman heard the child's screams, and smothered the flames with a rug. The little girl was dead when a doctor arrived.

THIEF REPENTS ON DEATHBED

Woman Orders Husband to Restore $50 Stolen From Newark W. in Four Years Ago.

New York.—Four years ago Mrs. Esther Bass, 169 Frelinghuysen avenue, Newark, lost a purse containing $50. The incident was recalled to her the other day by a man who called at her home and gave her the purse and $50. He explained that his wife died recently and on her deathbed confessed stealing the purse, asking him to make restitution.

The purse still contained the handkerchief that was in it when it was stolen. The money was not the original, but a single new bill.

STOLE SHAVE, ROBBED BARBER

Man Got Attention at Point of Gun,
Then Aided Masked Bandit.

Brooklyn.—How a customer, wrapping a pistol in a towel and forcing the weapon against his stomach, forced him to deliver a free shave, was told in court here, by Vincenzo Cantoni, a barber.

Cantoni appeared as a complainant against Giacomo Fasciano, accused of slipping out of a chair after the shave and aiding a masked robber to drag the barber to a rear room and rob him.

Rejected Suitor Blows Off His Head With Dynamite

Vancouver, B. C.—Emil Fillman, after his landlady was told to have rejected his offer of marriage, put a stick of dynamite in his mouth, lighted the fuse, and blew his head off.

Work of Leaf-Cutting Bee.

The leaf-cutting bee drills in a mud bank a hole ten inches deep and half an inch in diameter and divides it into about a dozen compartments or cells. Each cell is composed of pieces of leaf cut into proper shapes and carefully fitted together. Rose leaves and sweet pea leaves are among the favorites of the bees. The cutting is done with the jaws, while the six legs hold the leaf in position and enable the insect to turn itself about with the precision of a pair of compasses. Some of the cut pieces are perfect circles, others are oblong figures of varying proportions. Having cut out the segment of leaf, an operation requiring about twenty seconds, the bee carries it to the mud bank and then returns for more materials. When a piece has been nearly cut off, the bee, in order to prevent tearing, posess itself in the air with its wings and completes the operation with a clean cut.

HOUSE OF DAVID

Hansel Gives More Evidence of "Kings" Immorality and Declares Efforts Were Made to Poison "Rebels."

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Grand Rapids, Mich., March 23.—Members of the House of David are today to protect the honor of "Queen" Mary Purnell, wife of "King" Benjamin, leader of the Isidians, following the linking of her name with her husband's right hand man Francis Thorpe, Benjamin, himself, accused Mary of affairs with Thorpe when she produced over conditions at "Shiloh," Benjamin's palace, according to sensational testimony given by Mrs. Hannahford Hansel, former state secretary to "King" Benjamin, at the Hansel suit against the Isidians.

Mary was downhearted and blue over Benjamin's ways. She proved with him, told him he was having a disorderly house. "And what did Benjamin say to you?" Mrs. Hansel was asked. "He flew into a rage. He asked me right Mary had to protect his name with girl inmates of Shiloh, the whole colony of Shiloh was talking about her intimacy with Francis Thorpe. He shouted at her, 'don't trouble to hide your affair from Thorpe.' That was but one of the many quarrels they had."

Another time Mary threatened to move all of the girls out of Shiloh, Benjamin again became enraged and of her that if she ever tried to get the girls away from him he would kick Thorpe out of the colony.

The color mounted into Mary's face as Mrs. Hansel poured out her charges. She slumped back in her chair, her face white, her eyes closed.

"My time is coming," she whispered. "Wait until I get on the witness stand. I feel like a lion suddenly freed from its cage."

Calmly and without hesitation, Mrs. Hansel told of years of alleged intimacy with Benjamin. She placed him as a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, posing as a spiritual leader of followers, but revealing his true nature to the girls he kept in bondage at Shiloh.

Mrs. Hansel testified that Lena, picked by Benjamin for his "concubine," was so badly mistreated that she went insane and subsequently was sent back to Germany by Benjamin.

She told of tunnels leading from Shiloh. "Is it not possible that the tunnels were for sewage?" the court asked.

"Yes, your Honor, they were used for sewage, the kind that crawls on hands and knees," came the quick reply.

Benjamin always was armed to the teeth, Mrs. Hansel said, carrying a revolver, a combination sword and cane, and a set of brass knuckles.

"A brother wrote me that Mary threatened to stick a knife in me if she ever found me," testified Mrs. Hansel, explaining why she received her mail at a Detroit lawyer's office.

King Benjamin compelled old veterans to turn their pensions over to him, Mrs. Hansel said.

"I remember one case especially," she said. "Benjamin told an old man by the name of Ryan that if he did not turn in his pension, he would drop dead. A few days later he died and Benjamin called a mass meeting and said: 'See what I did for you?'"

As the plaintiffs closed their case, the court overruled a motion by the defense that all testimony relative to immorality at the colony be taken out.

SEEK NEW SUGAR
SOURCES IN U. S.

Government Experts Point Out That by Overcoming Economic Difficulties Country Can Produce All It Needs.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 23.—The United States may soon declare her sugar independence, government officials announced today.

With prices climbing, world supply said to be in the hands of a half dozen speculators, and the market ridden with foreign combinations and monopolies, this country has a potential sugar production to more than meet domestic demands.

Studies of production of both beet and cane sugar have developed the possibility of wide expansion of the industry. New varieties of cane have been discovered in extensive experimentation in Georgia.

"From the standpoint of soil and climatic conditions there is no reason why this country cannot produce sufficient sugar for the demand," Dr. C. O. Townsend, sugar expert of the agriculture department, told International News Service.

He pointed out that economic considerations of an expansion of the industry, such as ability to compete with foreign sugar by economic production, are being given attention by the agricultural department.

The United States at present produces one-fourth of the sugar it consumes—the normal beet sugar output being 1,000,000 tons and the cane crop about 350,000 tons.

Dr. Townsend said this season the output was reduced owing to the low price of sugar, making profitable production doubtful.

"Growing of sugar cane is at present confined to the states along the gulf coast," Dr. Townsend said. "However, growing of the sugar beet is possible in the northern states, the northwest and west. The beet industry is capable of wide expansion and through our experiments undoubtedly will enjoy a tremendous growth. Irrigation is a big problem in western culture of the beet."

The department of agriculture hopes likewise to extend the productive area of cane through the researches in Georgia.

There are several economic difficulties facing the American sugar producer, such as freight rates, labor costs and marketing charges.

PAPER MAKERS TO DEMAND HIGHER WAGE.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Montreal, March 23.—A decision to demand a return to the scale of wages given to all grades of workers prior to May 1, 1921, when a lower scale was accepted on an agreement which expires on May 1, next, was reached at the conference of the Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphide and Paper Mill Workers, it was learned today.

In May, 1921, the workers were locked out by their employers and remained so for about six weeks, the workers accepting a general cut in wages until May 1, 1923. Claiming now that the cost of living has increased during the past year, they are in conference to secure a return to the previous scale of wages.

FOSTER DEFENSE LOSES A POINT IN COURT.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
St. Joseph, Mich., March 23.—Efforts of the defense in the case of William Z. Foster, accused by Michigan of violating its syndicalism law, to show by deposition that "K-97," chief state witness, was a Communist who urged overthrow of the government, were defeated today when the court ruled such testimony inadmissible.

"K-97" is Francis Morrow, government investigator, who testified he saw Foster at the Communist party convention in Bridgman, Mich., last summer.

Mary Pickford Loses Suit.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, March 23.—The court of appeals held today that the publication of the song "Daddy Longlegs" and others accompanied by the name and picture of Mary Pickford, does not entitle Mary to damages of $5,000 from Watson, Berlin & Snyder, theatrical producers. The action involved a contract entered into by Miss Pickford and the producers, in May 1919.

New Discovery
Makes Table-Cloths Look New Again

No Matter How Stained, They Wash Out Spotless and Lustrous White.

It has been found that when just a little NACO, the wonderful new discovery, is added to the wash water with the soap, the tablecloth you thought "ruined" emerges spotless white and lustrous as when it was first taken from the hop chest. NACO is the preparation now used by textile manufacturers to give new linen and cotton goods that marvelous white sheen you admire in goods that have never been used.

It is now available to every housewife so that Monday after Monday, year in and year out, she can bring back that snowy whiteness that usually disappears at the first touch of the tub.

No matter what the spot or stain, it cannot stand before NACO. And dirt and grime are quickly loosened, so that the washboard is hardly needed. Think what that means in the longer life of the garments—the snowiest wash you ever saw without wear on the finest fabrics.

Not only in the washbowl, but also in the scrub bucket the housewife has in NACO an ever-present help. It cuts the grime and grease everywhere—on floors and walls and woodwork—on tiling and porcelain—moves scrubbing and rubbing, and will not injure the most delicate surface.

Your grocer has NACO—in the bottle. Advertisement.

This society is in a most flourishing condition with a membership of between sixty and seventy. The reports show that the past year has been one of the best in the history of the organization. Two new members were received into the society. After the business session refreshments were served and a very pleasant social time was enjoyed. The following were elected as officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. Frank Barnum, president; Mrs. W. F. Stowe, vice-president; Mrs. M. E. Powley, secretary and Mrs. Frank Brown, treasurer. The following were selected by the president to act as chairman of the several committees: Membership, Mrs. Rufus Kelder; calling, Mrs. Samuel Williams; social, Mrs. E. J. The program consisted of a soprano solo by Miss Weaver, piano solos by Miss Ferrill and Paul Barnum, a cornet solo by Allice Ritch, a saxophone solo by Allice Swart and recitations by Miss Merritt. All the numbers were so much enjoyed by the large audience that encores were in order. After the program everyone was invited to the chapel where a bountiful repast was served by the refreshment committee. They surely surprised their guests by serving them with dessert, strawberry short-cake with whipped cream. The evening was enlivened with community singing, and short after dinner speeches. Taken altogether the evening was a most enjoyable one. This club which was organized about a year and a half ago has a membership of one hundred and six.

NEW LEAD IN MODEL'S MURDER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, March 23.—A new signpost along the trail of love-thefts followed by Dorothy King on the way to her death by chloroform, today was counted by police as probable aid in a solution of the mystery murder. It was a threatening letter from a woman, former staunch friend of the slain model in the lean days before wealthy admirers lavished gifts and money on her.

It was received three days before the model was murdered, and so great was the terror it struck into her heart that she became hysterical and was ill for half a day. At that time she is believed to have written a file duplicating the one which foreshadowed her death through "something unforeseen."

Officers stated the new message which followed other clues to jealous enemies of Miss King, threatened vengeance on the model for betrayal of friendship and capture of the writer's lover.

Further investigation today showed that "John Marshall," millionaire admirer of the model whose identity remains cloaked, left her apartment in such haste the night of her death that he left behind his umbrella, which was found with a web of cotton stuffed into it and his comb, which apparently had fallen out of his pocket.

Foreign Department Executive Describes Army of 602,000 Women in This Country in Which It Is Planned To Enter Kingston Group.

The home of Miss Sarah Horton on Albany avenue was the scene on Thursday afternoon of a gathering of women, deeply interested in the proposed Y. W. C. A. for Kingston, gathered to listen to a talk by Miss Taylor, executive-secretary of the foreign department of the National Y. W. C. A. Miss Horton, during her war work with the Y. W. C. A. in France was under the supervision of Miss Taylor, to whom Miss Horton, in introducing her, said she had looked up to with awe but affectionate awe. It was therefore an especial pleasure to Miss Horton to learn that Miss Taylor would come to Kingston and to the friends whom she had gathered together. Miss Horton said she had asked Miss Taylor to speak particularly upon the world program for student and industrial girls, but this would not necessarily confine Miss Taylor to just that subject.

What Miss Taylor really did talk about, fluently, impressively, with a full heart and extremely comprehending mind, was "The best womanhood of the world for the entire girlhood of the world," a big subject, yet one of peculiar interest to those interested in the girls of Kingston.

Miss Taylor said she was very glad for two reasons to come to Kingston; first because she was glad to be of any service to Miss Horton; and second that she might address a group of women interested in the creating of a local Y. W. C. A., showing them the setting of the movement.

Noting how often an insignificant circumstance would take on a significant aspect, Miss Taylor recalled in her first days of teaching, at Glens Falls, an evening's outing of the teachers on a canal boat. All went down smoothly until there was a stop. The boat was in a lock. Then with the rising water, the boat continued on a higher level. Finally the boat had passed through five such rising levels. This figure Miss Taylor used as best describing the progress of the Y. W. C. A. since its institution in the United States in 1867. In the early days of the Y. W. C. A. that first level could scarcely have been believed possible. Such an interest in the project in a city the size of Kingston as to claim 1100 memberships before the organization or its establishment had become concrete, as had been the case here. Then Miss Taylor briefly told of the two national organizations for work for women which were rivals at first, but in 1907 united forces making a great national Y. W. C. A.

The possibilities of this organization in the interest of the girlhood of America so impressed Miss Grace Dodge with its importance and value that she gave all that she was and had to the Y. W. C. A. work which it was her aspiration should be of service to girls everywhere throughout our land. It was in great measure due to the deep personal spiritual power of Grace Dodge that the Y. W. C. A. reached the higher level that it did in normal times.

Then Miss Taylor, as proof of both facts, that the Y. W. C. A. has appealed to the sound business and friendly interest of women of great wealth and ability, told of how Miss Hurst, when a Y. W. C. A. conference was to be held on the Pacific coast, and to which there were 360 delegates, invited the entire conference to her own home, where she had erected practically a miniature tent city for the entertainment of her guests as well as some seventy-five or eighty women from San Francisco (the latter only for a day at a time) for ten whole days. After this conference three of the leaders of the conference were invited to the Palace Hotel in San Francisco to meet representatives of the Panama conference. The women were asked to build a building for the conference to take care of the women. It was done, and a cafeteria and rest rooms spread out into a Y. W. C. A. room for the local girls which was an unbelievable surprise and inspiration to them. Besides the service to a million and a half women, the project costing $25,000 was such a financial success that it cleared $129,000. This phenomenal success, Miss Taylor claimed could never have occurred had it not been for the banding together of the various members of the organization throughout the country. The Y. W. C. A. then proved itself a national asset, even in the minds of the influential business men of the time.

As a part of this higher level was noted also the wonderful Y. W. C. A. at 32nd street and Lexington avenue in New York city, to which Miss Taylor invited every one present.

Still another, higher, level was reached during the war, first by the miraculous response which the Y. W. C. A. made, almost upon the instant to the appeal from the highest military officers at the camps in this country for hostess houses, of which there were 126. Next came the translating work, wherein the Y. W. C. A. was able to help women and men alike with an almost unbelievable number of translations of other languages. The world knows what the overseas work of the Y. W. C. A. was, but every one who heard Miss Taylor was greatly impressed with a story she told of the American telephone girls, who were overseas under the supervision of the Y. W. C. A. Colonel Hill, head of the signal corps, told Miss Taylor that he had been bitterly criticized by both Americans and allies for allowing the telephone girls to do the responsible work they did, but he had found that if there was a movement hanging in the balance, where thorough, quick effective service was imperative, he needed American women at the switch-boards. Other war work Miss Taylor described.

And now, Miss Taylor considers, that with the after the war conditions the Y. W. C. A. must rise to a still higher level. It is now no longer a national but an international movement wherein the best womanhood of every live nation is showing its interest in and cooperation with the girlhood of that nation. And it is no longer something being done by some women for some other women. That is a thing of the past. Today the main idea is the responsibility of the entire Y. W. C. A. membership of girls and women; responsibility to each other; to the nation; to the church; to Christ. And the leaders for this new phase of the work must, from now on, be trained and developed from the members themselves, not brought in from outside.

In the most impressive manner, Miss Taylor showed what the spirit of 602,000 Christian women could bring to pass in a country; what a financial power they may also become; and finally what a power for world peace. Miss Taylor seriously warned her hearers of the unspeakably increased horrors of a future war, even from the viewpoint of our own discoveries, and urged that every possible influence be brought to bear against such an awful possibility.

Miss Taylor then told of a recent visit to the orient and of the wonderful Y. W. C. A. organizations that she found in China, Japan, India, Korea, etc., where the best womanhood was the heart and soul of this Christian organization.

According to Miss Taylor, today marks the still rising tide of womanhood, the world over; of united Christianity, the world over, where all shall unite to solve the problems of today and all shall be bound together by the power of the living God.

It is into this splendid army of 602,000 women of this country and others of all countries, that the girls and women of Kingston will be recruited in a local Y. W. C. A.

SPRING MEETING VALLEY C. OF C.

Held at Poughkeepsie—Endorses Bridge and Listens to Walsh and Ten Eyck.

The spring meeting of the Hudson Valley Federated Chamber of Commerce was held in Poughkeepsie on Thursday.

The principal speaker at the luncheon was the Hon. Edward S. Walsh, state superintendent of public works, who addressed the members present on the New York state canal system. His address was interesting and delivered in a forceful manner.

Congressman Peter G. Ten Eyck, chairman of the committee on the deepening of the Hudson, in an address pointed out the benefits that would be derived from the opening of the Hudson from the city of Hudson to Troy for ocean going vessels.

A resolution endorsing the building by the state of New York of a public vehicular bridge over the Hudson river approximately midway between New York and Albany was passed unanimously.

Those present from Kingston were: Clarence W. Peters, R. A. Dammund, B. E. Sagendorf, Louis S. Cox, Thomas J. Comerford and Charles A. Lasher.

PORT CHESTER DEFEATS NEWARK

The first of the final games in the New York state scholastic basketball championship were played at Syracuse on Thursday night with the following results:

Port Chester, 31; Newark, 24.
Bay Shore, 26; Rensselaer, 11.
Masten Park, Buffalo, 23; Norwich, 13.

The Morrisville Aggies team, winner of the semi-finals in the central New York section, was barred from participation in the finals because the officials did not find beyond a reasonable doubt that Morrisville was a bona fide amateur team of the high school class.

The tournament will continue today and Port Chester, champions of the Hudson Valley section is looked upon as a strong contender for championship honors.

He was just a staid old farmer,
And you never would have guessed
He was quite so fond of music
And had the very best.
He would whistle Sousa's Marches
Knew Farrar's Arts by heart,
And of all the newest musical shows
He knew the choicest parts.
He had listened in to the artists
And to him was great delight
When the thought of W. G. Y.'s singing
He had heard night after night.
English, Japanese, Mexican, Italian,
One by one he could recall
Each bright star would this old farmer
Who had listened to them all.
So I marvelled at his knowledge
As I thought how far and long
This old gentleman must have traveled
To have heard so much music and song.
Till at length I had asked him,
And he said this loud Hi Ho
Only to Kingston and bought
